MATTERN HOPS FROM MOSCOW BOUND TO OMSK

Texas Aviator 5¼ Hours Ahead of Post-Gatty Time on Flight.

Moscow, Tuesday, June 6 (U.P.).—James Mattern, American aviator attempting to fly around the world, was sighted over Kazan, Russia, 460 miles due east of here at 4:25 A. M. today.

Moscow (Tuesday), June 6 (A.P.).—James Mattern was racing into the black-clouded east early today toward Omsk, Siberia, after taking off from here at 1:14 a. m. (5:14 p. m. Monday, Eastern standard time) on the fourth leg of his attempt to hang up a new world-circling speed record.

The American aviator slept only two hours after his arrival yesterday afternoon from Oslo, Norway, but was forced to remain here 9 hours and 17 minutes because of delays in servicing his plane.

Two Water Hops Yet.

Soviet officials refused him permission to fly the shorter route to Alaska via Yakutsk, because of unfavorable conditions. He is following the same route taken by Wiley Post and Harold Gatty, who established the world-girdling record of 8 days 15 hours and 51 minutes in 1931.

Mattern left Moscow five and a quarter hours ahead of the standard set on the Post-Gatty flight. He was three hours ahead in reaching Moscow. Post and Gatty stayed there 11 hours and 30 minutes.

Mattern's course will take him on two more long over-waterhops—the Sea of Okhotsk and the Bering Sea—after leaving Khabarovsk. His immediate goal—Omsk—is 1,450 miles east of Moscow.

Says, "I Fooled Them."

Asked his reaction to surmises abroad that he was lost when he was unreported for some time after landing in Norway Sunday, Mattern said: "I fooled them, didn't I?"

He ended his transatlantic hop from New York to Jomfruland, off the south coast of Norway at 4:15 a. m., Eastern standard time, Sunday sixteen hours and 45 minutes

Senate Approves Home Relief Bill

(Associated Press.)

The administration's $2,000,000,000 emergency home mortgage relief bill yesterday saw final action by the Senate without even the formality of a record vote, and only a reconciliation of differences between the Senate and House measures intervened between the Capitol and the White House.

The Senate previously added several changes of major significance. The most important was to bring within the bill's broad scope homes valued up to $25,000, instead of limiting aid to those worth $15,000 or less, as provided by the House, and $10,000 as recommended by President Roosevelt.

Another was a stipulation that an interest rate of 6 per cent would be charged on cash advances from the projected Home Owners Loan Corporation, to be made only when the home owner could not obtain loans from ordinary lending agencies.

Mainland's Governor Plan for Hawaii Lost

Judge Lindsey, Slated for Post, Rejected by Colorado Court.

Denver, June 5 (A.P.).—Ben B. Lindsey, former Denver juvenile judge, today lost his appeal for reinstatement to the bar of Colorado, won a possible reentry through the door of apology and promptly slammed that door shut in the faces of the Colorado Supreme Court.

With two justices dissenting, the supreme court ruled that Lindsey could not be reinstated until he had apologized for statements concerning the court in a book he wrote after his disbarment.

With characteristic decision the fiery "little judge" declared in Los Angeles that he would never apologize and charged anew that the disbarment was a greater reflection on the court than himself.

House Refuses Roosevelt Request to Make Such Appointment.

(Associated Press.)

For the first time in this Congress, the House yesterday rejected an administration request by refusing to approve legislation to give President Roosevelt authority to name a mainland resident Governor of Hawaii.

The rejection, by a three-vote margin under a procedure requiring a two-third majority, was only a temporary set-back, for proponents may bring it up again under a procedure that will require only a majority vote.

The vote yesterday was 222 for to 114 against.

Charges of "carpet-bag Government," violation of "solemn treaty obligations" and "simple patronage request" was hurled by the opposition. Proponents replied that conditions in the islands had prompted the President's request and that his judg-

SPLIT WITH GERMANY THREAT AT MEETING

Senator King Tells Conference Hitler Oppression Must Be Curbed.

Severance of diplomatic relations between Germany and the United States may result if the persecution of Jews in Germany continues, Senator William H. King, chairman of the Senate District Committee, stated last night at a banquet session of the American National Conference Against Racial Persecution in Germany, at the Mayflower Hotel.

He said that he would have no hesitation in introducing a bill to that effect, if the Hitler government persisted in its "barbaric discrimination" against races and creeds.

Essentially a Christian conference, speakers at the session roundly condemned the anti-Jewish conditions in Germany. Representative Loring M. Black, of New York asked that delegates from this country to the London Economic Conference, refuse to negotiate with representatives of the Hitler government, and with the representatives of anti-Catholic governments of Spain and Mexico.

"There can be no guarantee where religious bigots are subscribers to a pact," he asserted in reference to the success of the economic conference.

"Unless Germany, Spain and Mexico give assurances of religious toleration, the London conference is doomed to failure." Mr. Black said. "Religious persecution is the lowest and most cowardly form of fraud. It operates in the name of the supernatural, but in reality is a very present and vile class larceny."

One of the resolutions adopted favored the creation of a fund to support the destitute victims of German oppression and enable them to establish homes in other lands.

The temporary relaxation of immigration barriers of this country to victims of German discrimination was urged in a resolution unanimously adopted by the body.

It read as follows:

"America has been greatly enriched through generations past by men and women of high quality who have come to our shores as a result of persecution in their own lands. Our country is known throughout the world as the haven of those who suffer from wrong and injustices, and who seek an opportunity for freedom not afforded in their own land. The present is another critical time and there are many victims of religious and racial persecution in Germany who, because of superior attainments and qualities of fine citizenship, would make val-

FATHER LEAVES CITY TO IDENTIFY GIBBS

Convinced Corpse Found in River Is That of His Missing Son.

Preparing to leave today for Winnipeg, Manitoba, in an attempt to identify the body of a youth found in a river there as that of his missing son, Henry C. Gibbs, of 1821 Newton street northwest, said last night he was "reasonably certain" the body was that of his lost boy.

According to Associated Press dispatches, the body of a young man, believed to be Henry Huntington Gibbs, 20-year-old University of Pennsylvania student, who disappeared last January after leaving notes for his parents and officials of the college, was found floating in the Assiniboine River late Sunday.

Police circulars sent throughout the country and Canada, carrying a complete description of the missing youth, were held as the basis of identification. Authorities at Winnipeg said the youth's body tallied in every way with the circular information and photos.

Mr. Gibbs told The Post last night that positive identification could be made should the body bear certain marks. His son, Mr. Gibbs said, had a large mole on the back of his neck and his arm was crooked from an early fracture.

The Gibbs youth disappeared January 6, sending a note to his parents here saying he "was about to take his life" and that his body "would never be found."

Fire Follows Brooklyn Celluloid Factory Blast

New York, June 5 (A.P.).—An explosion attributed by police to spontaneous combustion shook the two-story brick building occupied by the Amerloid Manufacturing Co., Inc., celluloid novelty makers, in the Brooklyn ghetto district late today.

Snowden Favors Payment of Debt

London (Tuesday), June 6 (A.P.). Viscount Snowden, of Ickornshaw, twice chancellor of the exchequer in British cabinets, has thrown the weight of his authority in financial matters on the side of paying the June debt instalment to the United States, but of paying it in silver.

In a special article in the Daily Mail today, he discusses the pros and cons of paying the $75,950,000, all interest, which falls due June 15. While contending "there is a strong moral case for complete relief from the American debt," he maintains that "on the whole, the weight of argument heavily favors making the payment."

He takes the view that it is very dangerous for any government to repudiate its bonds, and more dangerous for Great Britain than for any other.

IMPROVEMENTS TO WASHINGTON CHANNEL URGED

Brown Submits Plan to Dern Estimated to Cost $1,650,000.

Improvement of the Washington channel at an estimated cost of $1,650,000 is urged by Maj. Gen. Lytle Brown, chief of engineers, who yesterday forwarded to Secretary of War George Dern for transmittal to Congress plans for the carrying out of the huge project.

Gen. Brown asked that the "construction of these works be entrusted to the War Department to be prosecuted in the same manner that the reclamation and development of the Anacostia River and flats are now being prosecuted."

The recommendations of the District engineer and the Board of Engineers for Rivers and Harbors accompanied the Brown report to the Secretary of War's office. They differed little except in plans for the administration of the project.

May Have Harbor Board.

The District Engineer had recommended the establishment of a harbor board to administer the frontage upon its completion. In this administrative plan he was supported by the Board of Commissioners and the National Capital Park and Planning Commission.

However, Gen. Brown sees no reason for the creation of such a board, stating that "the administration of the harbor frontage after its completion does not require the establishment of a new board or commission, but might be assigned to the Board of Commissioners of the District."

Gen. Brown's report to Secretary Dern states, in part:

"The Committee on Rivers and Harbors of the House of Representatives, by a resolution adopted June 3, 1932, requested the board of engineers for rivers and harbors to review the reports on Potomac River, north side of Washington Channel, D. C., with a view to determining if any modification of the recommendations therein presented should be made at this time.

Yacht Harbor Proposed.

"The District Engineer submits a new plan for improvement which provides for a yacht harbor in four sections on the upstream half of the frontage above the War College grounds with berthing space for 386 boats. The board of engineers is of the opinion that this plan is adequate and proper to accomplish the purpose. I concur in this recommendation.

"On the downstream half, the harbor master wharf is to be completed for the joint use of the Harbor Police and Harbor Fire Department station, and a new workhouse pier is to be built unless it is decided by the District authorities to build it on the Anacostia River.

"Three new piers for commercial use are to be constructed, one for the Norfolk & Washington Boat Line, one for local excursion boats and one for miscellaneous service. These piers will provide facilities for all present waterfront uses. The plans provide space for eventual widening of Water

9 Wet States

Illinois Votes to Repeal National Dry Law by 800,000.

Chicago, June 5 (A.P.).—Illinois today joined the parade of eight other States opposed to national prohibition, by the overwhelming majority of approximately 800,000.

Even downstate counties, long regarded the prop of the dry movement in the State, contributed in the main along with industrial centers to the maelstrom of votes for repeal.

The vote from 4,980 precincts out of the State's 7,249 stood: For repeal 881,211; against, 190,503.

The heaviest repeal wave washed metropolitan areas. Cook County and Chicago, with 3,125 precincts out of 3,553 counted, voted: for repeal, 610,693; against, 60,575.

The down-State counties, however, failed to give repealists such a majority. The vote outside of Cook County in 1,855 precincts of 3,696 was: For repeal, 270,518; against, 129,929.

The prohibition delegate election was held coincidental to a judicial election and voters balloted for a slate of 50 delegates. The delegates, solid for repeal, will meet in Springfield July 10 to record officially the

VETERANS' CUT RIFT MAY HOLD CONGRESS

Leaders in House Call Joint Meeting Today on Ultimatum of President.

(Associated Press.)

A widening breach between President Roosevelt and Congress over veterans' allowances threatened yesterday to tear asunder the administration's legislative program and indefinitely prolong the extra session of Congress.

House leaders called a joint meeting of several committees for today to discuss the President's demand that new taxes be imposed to keep the budget in balance if veterans compensations are to be increased.

The Senate amendment to the independent offices bill limited to 25 per cent the amount of reductions that may be made in service connected cases.

Speaker Rainey and Representative Byrns, of Tennessee, the Democratic leader, said yesterday that a majority of the House favored the 25 per cent reduction amendment and expressed concern that the limitation might be further reduced to 15 per cent when the supply bill is brought up later in the week to be sent to conference for adjustment of differences between the Senate and House.

The Democratic leaders plan to discuss the entire situation at a joint meeting today of the steering committee, the special veterans' committee and Chairman Buchanan (Democrat), of Texas, of the House Appropriations Committee.

The meeting was called by Representative Crosser, of Ohio, chairman of the Democratic steering committee, yesterday following an executive meeting with the special veterans' committee. This committee was set up by the Democratic caucus two weeks ago to protest to President Roosevelt against regulations promulgated by Lewis W. Douglas, the Budget

London, June 5 (A.P.).—Bad weather again forced Capt. and Mrs. James A. Mollison to postpone the start of their transatlantic flight to New York from tomorrow morning until at least Wednesday.

The Mollisons are planning to hop back across the ocean almost immediately, flying nonstop from New York to Bagdad, for what would be a new world straight-line distance flying record. From Bagdad, they intend to fly direct to England.

VAN SWERINGEN ACTIONS SIFTED IN MORGAN QUIZ

Railway Empire Produced From $2,000,000 Cash Loan.

(Associated Press.)

Senate investigators of J. P. Morgan & Co. learned privately yesterday of a partner's income reducing stock sales and then heard their investigator, Ferdinand Pecora, develop publicly how the Van Sweringen's founded a vast railroad empire on borrowed money.

Halted temporarily in questioning Thomas S. Lamont about late 1930 stock sales which involved also his wife's market transactions, Pecora grilled O. P. Van Sweringen on the growth of the rail domain of himself and his brother, M. J. Van Sweringen, from a $2,000,000 cash loan in 1916.

The investigator showed first how the Cleveland men acquired Nickel Plate control for $8,500,000 of borrowed funds.

Lamont Decision Today.

Van Sweringen agreed that money for obtaining his Chesapeake & Ohio interest "came from the public" and when asked to give an answer as to how $11,200,000 was raised to buy Erie Railroad stock, replied:

"It may take about a week to get that."

The Van Sweringen railroad interests and Morgan & Co.'s latter years financing of them became the subject of Pecora's examination after the Banking Committee deferred until today a decision on whether Lamont should testify on large stock sales on December 30, 1930—a year in which all Morgan partners paid an aggregate income tax of $48,000.

John W. Davis, counsel for the Morgans, argued with the committee in closed session against such inquiries, citing the law against publication of income tax returns in challenging the committee's authority to pursue the matter.

Dealings With Wife.

Pecora raised no claim of illegality But senators hearing the discussion received differing impressions of the part Lamont's wife played in the stock transactions.

Some said Mrs. Lamont had bought some stock at about the same time her husband sold and then had sold when he rebought. Others said Lamont sold to his wife, deducted capital losses on his tax return, and then repurchased the stock.

There was some discussion in committee, too, of handling the whole matter in executive session.

Van Sweringens' Entry.

So while Morgan and his partners sat nearby, displaying little interest in the testimony, O. P. Van Sweringen related how he and his brother, M. J., one time real estate operator, entered the railroad field in 1916 by purchasing control of the Nickel Plate Railroad from the New York Central for $8,500,000.

This was the beginning of the broadening Van Sweringen rail interests that came to employ the Morgan banking house for financing and advice.

"J. P. Morgan & Co., whom we regarded, as does the world, as wise counselors in matters of finance," was the designation given the banking firm by Van Sweringen.

As he plodded through the labrynth

Nephew Identifies Two Slain Women

Miami Beach, Fla., June 5 (A.P.).—Bodies of two women found tied together in Dumfounding Bay near here were identified today as Miss Lillian Howard, 55, and Mrs. Meyer Shapiro, 40, of Woodstock, Va.

Identification was made by Simon Wender, a nephew of Miss Howard, who came here from Woodstock. He identified dental work in the women's teeth. Wender said the bodies would be sent to Baltimore, Md., tonight. Later they will be taken to Woodstock for burial.

The women disappeared May 14 after starting on an automobile trip to Woodstock. They were winter visitors here. Investigators believe they were waylaid, robbed and killed, and their bodies tied together and thrown into the bay after being weighted down. No arrests have been made.

Trade License Is Restored by Senate Group

Enables President to Compel Respect for Industrial Bill.

Plan of House to Tax Smaller Incomes Is Rejected.

(Associated Press.)

Power for the President to license manufacturing establishments that refuse to fall into line with trade agreements upon which the majority of their industry decide, so as to force them to adhere to the practices of the industry, was put back into the industry-public works bill yesterday by the Senate Finance Committee.

The committee reconsidered the action by which it struck such authority from the bill several days ago.

Just a little earlier, it had thrown aside the House proposals and substituted the Harrison plan in a vote which in effect was a decision to increase the taxes upon the industry rather than those of the person of small income.

McNary Suggested Delay.

The Harrison plan calls for corporation net worth and dividend taxes to finance the $3,300,000,000 worth of public works provided in the bill.

The committee then reported the measure to the Senate, but Democratic leaders agreed to let it go over until tomorrow before taking it up on the floor.

Senator McNary, of Oregon, the Republican leader, suggested this delay to permit the minority party to decide upon its position in the greatly revised measure.

Roosevelt Urged Action.

The licensing provision eliminated by 12 to 7 last week by the committee was restored by 12 to 6, after five Democrats switched their position and voted to put it back.

President Roosevelt had urged restoration of the provision and administration leaders asserted that without it the entire purpose of the legislation would be destroyed.

If industries refused to cooperate, the President would be authorized license them to compel them to adopt codes of fair competition covering wages, production and hours of work. He also could deny licenses to recalcitrant minorities and bar their goods from interstate commerce.

Operative One Year.

The only change made in the House licensing clause was to make it operative only for one year instead of two. Hugh S. Johnson, who has been selected as administrator of the industrial provision, told the committee one year would prove sufficient.

The five Democrats who voted for the licensing section yesterday after opposing it last week were King, Connally, Bailey, Clark and McAdoo. Joining them for restoration were

HOWE CALLED AGAIN IN KIT INVESTIGATION

White House Aid's Radio Talk Is Attacked in Senate by Cutting.

By LAWRENCE SULLIVAN.

Louis M. Howe, principal secretary at the White House, has been invited to appear before the Senate Committee on Military Affairs at 11 o'clock this morning to review his part in the purchase of 200,000 toilet kits for the civilian conservation camps.

In the afternoon session today, Lewis Douglas, Director of the Budget, and P. W. Lowery, an assistant in the budget office, who conferred with Mr. Howe regarding the $1.40 camp kits will be examined as to their versions of the events which led up to the contract.

R. B. Be Vier, president of the Be Vier Corporation of New York and San Diego, Calif., told the committee last Saturday he obtained the contract three hours after he had conferred with Mr. Howe at the White House on the afternoon of May 16.

It was explained that Mr. Be Vier had introduced himself at the White House by presenting a letter from Basil O'Connor, one time law partner of President Roosevelt in New York.

Mr. Howe told the committee last Thursday that he did not direct the purchase of the kits, but had merely written Robert Fechner, director of the conservation camps, that there was ample authority for his making the purchase outside of the regular channels of Army procurement.

Several conflicts between the statements of Mr. Howe, Mr. Fechner and Mr. Be Vier now stand in the committee record. With a view to gathering up all the loose ends of the story, the committee determined yesterday to hear Mr. Howe again.

Senator Logan (Democrat), Kentucky, has emphasized the remarkable dispatch with which Mr. Be Vier closed the kit contract following his arrival in Washington. "He came to town late in the afternoon and had the signed agreement in his pocket before sundown," Senator Logan said.

The letter from Mr. Howe to Mr Fechner, which either authorized or directed the purchase of the Be Vier equipment was approved personally by President Roosevelt.

While the Military Committee marked time yesterday in its inquiry into the kit contract, Mr. Howe was sharply attacked on the Senate floor

Husband Insists He Shot Himself

Shot twice through the abdomen, apparently as he lay in bed, Philip Wiedman, 38 years old, 834 Tenth street northeast, was reported in critical condition late last night in Casualty Hospital.

Although Wiedman, an employe of the District filteration plant, insisted that he shot himself, police were holding his wife, Frances, 38, and William Long, 54, a boarder, for questioning in connection with the shooting.

Three Wiedman children, Barbara, 10; Joseph, 8, and Ada, 15, were asleep in an upstairs bedroom when the shooting occurred. Barbara, a student at St. Joseph's School, told police that she heard her father and mother quarreling a short time before the shooting occurred.

Although police pressed Wiedman for an explanation of the shooting, pointing to the seriousness of his injury, he continued to assert that he shot himself.

25 Fraternity Men Flee House Flames

About 25 University of Maryland students barely escaped with their lives last night when the Sigma Phi Sigma fraternity house was destroyed by fire, believed to have been caused by lightning.

The Hyattsville Volunteer Fire Department and the College Park Fire Department responded to the alarm, but the flames had gained too great a headway on the three-story frame building to be checked. Damage was estimated at $5,000.

The house, located on College avenue near the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad tracks, was occupied by members of the fraternity, most of whom were on the first floor listening to the radio at the time the fire was discovered. Only a few personal belongings were saved.

SPOTTED FEVER FUND REDUCED; ONE DEAD

First Victim Caught Disease in Maryland, Is Doctors' Opinion.

With the threatening spread of Rocky Mountain spotted fever that has already claimed one life in the District this season, comes the announcement that funds to combat the mysterious disease have been reduced to half.

The victim was Frank S. Hubbard, a market specialist of the Department of Agriculture, who died Sunday at his home at 316 Quackenbos street Northwest.

Physicians believe he contracted the disease about two weeks ago while tramping in the woods in Anne Arundel County, Md. Returning from the walk, he found two dog ticks on his body and pulled them off. About a week later he was stricken.

The diagnosis was made by his physician, Dr. Frederick H. Morhart, of 1704 Sixteenth street northwest. Public Health Service physicians said there may have been another tick on the victim's body that he failed to see.

Third Death in Two Years.

Prominent health officers throughout the country say there is no known cure for the disease, and that all that can be done is to attempt to save the victim's strength, hoping that the body itself will throw off the disease.

Mr. Hubbard's death is the third to occur in Washington from the disease in the last two years. In each case it is believed the tick was picked up in the spotted fever sections of nearby Maryland.

Physicians here said there is little cause for Washingtonians to become alarmed. No evidence of the virus-carrying ticks has been discovered here and in each case of death the germ has been traced to Maryland, they said.

Federal Fund Reduced.

Word comes from the Public Health Service that funds for fighting the disease in the East and West have been reduced for the coming year from $83,000 to $49,000, through the action of Director of the Budget Douglas.

In order not to reduce the limited output of precious vaccine which affords a high degree of protection against the disease, the department will dismiss several Public Health Service physicians.

The funds for combating and research of the Eastern type of the fever in the District have been reduced from $18,000 to $9,000.

Post's Queen Entry Back

Miss Betty Schwartz, as she arrived at Union Station after being the guest of The Washington Post at the opening ceremonies of the Century of Progress Exposition at Chicago last week.

Betty Schwartz Tired but Happy After Glamorous Visit to Chicago.

Betty Schwartz is back.

Washington's entry in the Queen's contest at the Century of Progress Exposition yesterday returned from Chicago after delirious days of pleasure and interest.

The little Northeast girl, who was chosen to represent Washington at the fair in the great contest to select a queen, sponsored by The Washington Post and other newspapers, dropped off a Pennsylvania express train at Union Station, tired but still excited.

Still breathless with the round of strenuous parties and lavish entertainment heaped on her and the other 50 girls who competed, she could say little more than that she had a great adventure.

The fair was wonderful; the girl who was chosen queen was "very tall and good looking;" the parties lasted until 4 a. m., she was tired; the schedule of entertainment planned was cut in half, but still there was not enough time for all; she met so many people, James Dunn, Buddy Rogers, the Mayor of Chicago. • • •

Betty was met at the station by her family—she lives at 609 H street northeast. Her trip was an event in many ways. She had never been on a train before, her father said.

The people in charge of the girls were just fine, she said. Everything was well taken care of and the staff of the Chicago Tribune, with which The Post cooperated in staging the affair, had provided pleasure for every minute of the occasion.

WAMPLER'S TRIAL ORDERED BY COURT

Attorney Loses His Appeals in Case Alleging Income Tax Evasions.

T. Morris Wampler, prominent member of the local bar, will have to stand trial in the Baltimore courts on an indictment charging him with an attempt to evade the payment of taxes "by the filing of a false income tax with the Collector of Internal Revenue at Baltimore."

The District Court of Appeals yesterday so ruled when it affirmed the decision of the District Supreme Court which had, in turn, affirmed a decision of United States Commissioner Turnage. Commissioner Turnage, after an extensive hearing, ordered Wampler to go to Baltimore for trial, and the various appeals were taken from that decision.

In his appeal, Wampler contended that the Maryland court was without jurisdiction because the tax return was dropped in the mail here, and that, therefore, if there was an offense committed it was committed here. The higher court held that the law directed the "filing" of the return in Baltimore, and that the tax was not "filed" until it reached the collector's hand in Baltimore.

The second point relied upon by the attorney was the denial by the commissioner of an offer by Wampler to introduce evidence tending to show a lack of probable cause. The court pointed out that the commissioner only had to find "reasonable ground to believe the accused guilty," and that evidence of lack of probable cause was not properly a subject for the commissioner in such a hearing.

The final paragraph of the decision suggested that "petitioner, who is a prominent member of the bar of the District of Columbia, should welcome the opportunity for an immediate trial, and since the distance between Washington and Baltimore involves no serious expense or inconveniences, there exists no element in the case of hardship sometimes found in removal cases."

for a Nation-wide radio address Sunday night which American Legion legislators characterized as "a grave breach of propriety." The address was widely interpreted on Capitol Hill as an unofficial White House appeal to the country for support of the veteran pension cuts enacted last March. In the independent offices bill, now en route to conference, the Senate restored approximately $160,000,000 of the $430,000,000 lopped off veteran awards in the act of March 21.

Senator Bronson Cutting, one of the Republican insurgents who supported Mr. Roosevelt in the presidential campaign last year, read excerpts of Mr. Howe's Sunday night radio address to the Senate. Senator Cutting was formerly department commander of the American Legion in New Mexico.

"I do not recall any analogy to this case of a presidential secretary appealing to the country on a major policy," the senator said. "It is very unfortunate that such an example should be handed down. It is a grave question whether any coordinate branch of the Government should ever appeal to the country against another branch. But certainly it is not the duty of a secretary, a clerk, or a stenographer to make such an appeal."

Further along Senator Cutting alluded to Mr. Howe's radio statement that enactment of the new Senate schedule of veteran awards would add $1,25 to the 1934 Federal tax bill of every man, woman and child in the United States.

"We only hear about balancing the budget," the senator continued, "when it comes to reducing the compensation of war veterans or Government employes."

The concluding episode of Mr. Howe's Sunday night broadcast also aroused considerable comment on Capitol Hill yesterday, although this section did not figure directly in the exchanges on the Senate floor.

The official transcript of this portion of the interview follows:

Mr. Trumbull: Now, Mr. Howe, will you excuse a personal question? I noticed as I have been talking with you here that you seem worried about something. Has anything particularly gone wrong, or are you expecting some sort of an important message? You jump every time anyone comes into the room.

Mr. Howe: Well, I might as well make an honest confession as long as you noticed it. I am dreadfully worried.

Mr. Trumbull: Is it something you can tell me about?

Mr. Howe: I suppose so. It is about these kittens. Two or three weeks ago a lady somewhere out in California wrote me that she had two highly bred Persian cats who were about to add to the family, and could she name one of the kittens after me. I was highly flattered and at once agreed, but I haven't heard a word since. I mislaid the letter so I can't telegraph, and day after day, and hour after hour, no word about these kittens, I never realized the anxiety of a prospective god-parent. If anyone in California has had any word I hope they will write and let me know; and be sure and tell me how mother and the young ones are getting on and how father stood the strain. It will be a tremendous relief."

LINDSEY REJECTED BY COLORADO COURT

ington was defeating the President's proposal that he be allowed to appoint a mainlander as Governor of Hawaii, a post for which Lindsey has been mentioned. Representative Dirkson (Republican), Illinois, during debate on the proposal today, told the House that he understood Judge Lindsey was the man to be appointed.

Lindsey, whose social theories and political practices have kept him in the public eye for more than a quarter century, was disbarred in 1929 for accepting $27,500 from Mrs. Helen Elwood Stokes and her children for his services as a mediator in a controversy over the estate of the late W. E. D. Stokes. A guardianship suit over the children had been before him as juvenile judge.

After his disbarment he wrote a book concerning it in which he ascribed the action to political enemies.

VAN SWERINGEN QUESTIONED IN SENATE'S MORGAN PROBE

of railroad acquisitions, Pecora brought out from Van Sweringen that the Nickel Plate Securities Co. once paid $565 a share for Chesapeake & Ohio stock at a time when the Nickel Plate Railroad was paying $80 for the same stock.

Then just before the hearing recessed for the night Pecora said some of the requests of his investigators were not answered by Van Sweringen's Cleveland office. The witness said all "listed requests" were complied with and that "we really want to get the information for you."

Van Sweringen was forced to hold many whispered conferences with his aids and counsel regarding details of the formation of the Alleghany Corporation, a huge holding group financed by J. P. Morgan & Co.

While he testified, his brother, to whom he referred frequently as "M. J.," was listening closely.

It was brought out that the Van Sweringen brothers borrowed $2,100,000 from the Guardian Savings & Trust Co. of Cleveland on July 3, 1916. Two days later they bought 25,032 shares of first preferred, 62,750 of second preferred and 62,400 of common stock in the Nickel Plate, paying $2,000,000 cash and putting up promissory notes for the remainder.

These notes were on the Guaranty Trust Co. of New York, which acted as trustee in the transaction and held the Nickel Plate stock as collateral.

Shortly afterward the Van Sweringens formed their first holding company—the Nickel Plate Securities Co.

Among those named by Van Sweringen as associated in the Nickel Plate purchase were J. R. Nutt and C. L. Bradley, both of Cleveland.

The Van Sweringens were shown to have transferred their Nickel Plate holdings, together with some other assets including real estate, to the Nickel Plate Securities Co. In return they received $12,500,000 in par value common stock and undertook to market over $2,000,000 of preferred stock, the proceeds of which took care of the Guardian Trust loan.

While Van Sweringen was under examination, Senator Nye (Republican), North Dakota, was telling the Senate that Morgan & Co. was fighting ratification of the St. Lawrence waterway treaty because of the power interests of the banking house. Similar contentions were made last week by Senator La Follette (Republican), Wisconsin.

When Pecora asked Van Sweringen how money was raised to pay the $6,500,000 promissory notes on the Nickel Plate, he said part came out of earnings, but the larger part from preferred stock of the Nickel Plate System after consolidation with the Clover Leaf and Lake Erie and Western roads.

Pecora turned to that part of Van Sweringen's prepared statement dealing with acquisition of the Chesapeake & Ohio from interests identified later as those of Henry E. Huntington, nephew of one of the organizers of the railroad.

"We went to J. P. Morgan & Co. for financial advice just as we would go to our doctor and our lawyers for other advice," Van Sweringen explained.

Pecora brought out that while the Nickel Plate Railroad got 70,000 shares of C. & O. stock at $80, the Nickel Plate Securities Corporation paid $1,700,000 for 3,000 shares.

Pecora asked if Van Sweringen regarded it "fair" to "saddle" minority holders in the Nickel Plate Securities Co. with a price of $565 a share for C. & O. stock.

"Yes," the witness replied, "they were right in with us."

"Well, now, how would it have been if they had been allowed to share in the acquisition of these 70,000 shares at $80 instead of $565—more than five times the market value of the stock?"

"You'll have to give the whole story to get an accurate picture," Van Sweringen protested.

SENATE GROUP RESTORES PLAN TO LICENSE INDUSTRY, 12-6

George, Walsh, Barkley, Costigan, Lonergan, and Harrison, Democrats, and La Follette, Republican.

$500 Penalty Is Restored.

Voting against it were Byrd, Democrat, and the following Republicans: Reed, Keyes, Metcalf, Hastings, and Walcott.

The committee, before finally approving the bill, also restored the penalty of $500 for each violation of any code agreement entered into by industries.

The Harrison Corporation net worth and dividend taxes are estimated to raise more than the $220,000,000 necessary for the financing.

Defeating again the sales tax as a third alternative for raising the necessary revenues—this time only by one vote—the committee then prepared to reconsider its 12 to 1 vote of last week by which it eliminated the industrial licensing provisions.

Harrison's tax program removed existing exemptions allowed private bankers and partnership members and provides:

A tax of .1 of 1 per cent on the net worth of corporations, the fair value to be fixed by the corporation as the tax base. All corporate earnings in excess of 12½ per cent would be taxed an additional 5 per cent. This is designed to raise $80,000,000.

Tax of 5 per cent on dividends deducted at the source, estimated to raise $70,000,000.

Increase of ½ cent in the 1-cent a gallon gasoline levy, estimated to raise $62,000,000.

Administration changes, $15,000,000.

These administrative changes would: Remove the private banker from the group of bankers and trust companies and other security dealers which are now permitted to deduct from ordinary income losses on stocks and bonds held for two years or less.

Deny the individual the right to take up on his personal return the distributive share of any partnership losses.

Repeal existing law permitting losses on stocks and bonds to be carried over and charged against gains in subsequent years, and permitting the losses to be deducted only in the year in which they are incurred.

Harrison's plan also extends for two years beyond July 1 the consolidated return provision of existing law and boosts from ¼ to 1 per cent the penalty provided where consolidated instead of separate returns are filed.

D. C. Share of Highway Fund Is Assured by King

District of Columbia participation in the $400,000,000 Federal highway aid program embodied in the recovery bill yesterday was provided in the Senate Finance Committee's formal report to the Senate, following a last-minute check by Senator William H. King (Democrat), Utah, to be certain language agreed to Saturday will be adequate.

Meanwhile, officials of the Bureau of Public Roads confirmed the preliminary $2,000,000 estimate as the District's probable share of the huge sum.

uable additions to our Commonwealth. We, therefore, ask the Government temporarily to relax the immigration barriers in favor of such persons and urge the passage of such measures as will effect this result."

Gov. Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland stated that the citizens of America have the elemental right to say that the forces of bigotry, intolerance and prejudice must no longer be fomented and capitalized.

The contributions of the Jews in Germany will be gratefully remembered when the name of Hitler, even in Germany, will be "a shameful memory," Representative James M. Beck, of Pennsylvania, stated.

Representative Joseph W. Byrns, of Tennessee, told the group of the contributions of members of the Jewish race to German and world culture.

Asserting that every liberty loving citizen of every nation of the globe should protest against the treatment of Jews in Germany, Representative John J. O'Connor, of New York, described Hitler as the "Madman of Germany."

Frank J. Hogan, who acted as toastmaster, asked that the members of the conference maintain a constant vigil in their fight against racial persecution.

Others who addressed the meeting were the Rev. John K. Cartwright, pastor of St. Patrick's Church; Senator Millard E. Tydings, of Maryland; former Representative Fiorello LaGuardia, of New York, and the Rev. Russell J. Clinchy, pastor of the Mount Pleasant Congregational Church.

Hamilton Hotel's Sale Is Approved

The sale of the Hamilton Hotel, under foreclosure proceedings, March 1, 1932, for $529,000, yesterday met with the approval of the District Court of Appeals, which had been asked to set aside a ruling of the District Supreme Court that had ratified the sale.

At the same time, the appellate court ruled that the American Security & Trust Co., which had been named trustee for a mortgage of $1,550,000 after G. Bryan Pitts had resigned as trustee, was a matter within the discretion of the District Supreme Court, which appointed the bank, and that Samuel J. Henry, who was named in the terms of the trust as second successor trustee to Pitts, was not entitled to a decree naming him as trustee in the place of the bank.

George Wright, holder of a $500 bond, had sought to set aside the sale as being void for the reason that Henry should have been the trustee in the place of the bank. He and Henry joined their suits because of the similarity of their nature.

Director, and Brig. Gen. Frank T. Hines, the Veterans' Administrator, under the economy act, designed to reduce veterans' expenditures by $420,000,000.

Crosser said this special committee desired to use the 25 per cent reduction amendment "as a basis for adjustment" and that no thought was given to what form of taxes could be made to produce the revenue necessary to meet the increased veterans' outlay.

Although Chairman Doughton (Democrat), of North Carolina, of the Ways and Means Committee, said he would "go along" with the President in trying to find new taxes, Speaker Rainey said only two avenues of taxation remained that would provide the revenue.

"Either we will have to impose a gross income tax or a general sales tax," Rainey said. "The people who are fighting for the veterans are not for the sales tax, and the only other way I know is to levy a gross income tax. We have all the luxury taxes now the country will stand for and we can't get any more money by increasing net income tax rates."

10 PER CENT SLASH SOUGHT IN TARIFFS

U. S. Delegation to London Parley Discloses Plan for World Cut.

S. S. President Roosevelt, at Sea, June 5 (A.P.).—A flat 10 per cent cut in all Nations' tariffs was disclosed officially today by the United States delegation as an idea being strongly pushed for action at the forthcoming World Economic Conference in London.

A spokesman for the American group heading for the British capital on this ship expressed the belief that such a reduction would be proposed and achieved at the conclave opening a week from today. If this alone resulted in the tariff field, he said, the conference would not be a failure.

It was conceded that objections would be raised immediately on grounds that the proposal is unscientific since tariff barriers are of varying height, but it was pointed out that reciprocal agreements could be reached subsequently to meet specific circumstances.

Members of the delegation said a flat 10 per cent cut would have a tremendous psychological value and would be evidence of the good faith of the participating nations. It was recalled that Secretary of State Hull made a similar proposal several months ago.

A powerful lever to bring recalcitrant nations into line was seen in the possibility that the agreement would apply only to countries reducing their own tariffs.

American officials said the trade agreements drawn at Ottawa a year ago would not prevent Great Britain from participating.

The delegates are eagerly awaiting news of the new tariff bill to be presented to Congress.

GASOLINE STATIONS NEAR DISTRICT WIN

Oil Concerns Go On Absorbing Part of State Taxes to Meet Local Prices.

The retail price of gasoline will be the same today in nearby Virginia and Maryland as that charged to the automobile owner in the District, as a result of a willingness on the part of all large oil companies to absorb the difference between the District and Maryland and the District and Virginia gasoline taxes.

One large oil company which had refused to absorb the difference in the taxes, yielded yesterday, and as a consequence all gas stations in Arlington County and in nearby Montgomery and Prince Georges Counties will be selling gasoline at "D. C. prices."

The posted price per gallon is 15.5 cents, with 2 cents reduction for cash, or 13.5 cents for a gallon of gasoline when cash is paid. In the District 2 cents of this price is for the District tax and 1 cent is the Federal tax.

In Maryland the State and Federal tax amounts to 5 cents a gallon, while in Virginia the State and Federal tax totals 6 cents a gallon. By returning to the former plan the oil companies absorb 2 cents of the 3 cents difference between the District and Virginia taxes, and 1 cent between the 2 cents difference between the Maryland and District gasoline taxes.

Sleep Diet by Mattern Helped Flight Success

New York, June 5 (A.P.).—That Jimmie Mattern had gone on a "sleep diet" in preparation for his flight around the world was disclosed today by associates.

Jack Clark, Mattern's representative here, said that for the last two weeks Mattern had slept no more than five hours a day and had varied his time for sleep entirely around the clock. He explained this was done to accustom the flier to sleeping at any time the opportunity arose in addition to getting along with as little sleep as possible.

MATTERN SPEEDING EAST FROM MOSCOW

later he flew to Oslo, Norway. At 12:40 a. m., Eastern standard time, he took off for Moscow, arriving here seven hours and 17 minutes later.

He was 60 hours and 54 minutes out of New York City when he lifted his red, white and blue winged plane into the East early today.

He had intended flying to Novosibirsk from here, but decided against it when he learned the landing field there might be too small.

He had not intended to reach Moscow via Oslo, but was driven out of his path by bad weather. About 400 miles out over the Atlantic, he explained, he encountered a low pressure area which coated his plane with ice and forced him finally to turn north. He had fuel for several hours more flying when he landed in Norway, but he decided to get some rest.

Mrs. Mattern Cool At News of Arrival

Walla Walla, Wash., June 5 (A.P.). Mrs. Jimmy Mattern isn't nervous, but telephone calls to the home of her sister, Mrs. C. C. Douglass, are invariably answered by the wife of the globe circling aviator.

"It's such a relief to know that he is safe," she said when informed that the Associated Press reported him first at Oslo and later at Moscow.

"You say he is nearly three hours ahead of the Post-Gatty record?" she asked. "Isn't that splendid!"

ILLINOIS VOTES WET IN REPEAL ELECTION

State's dirge for the eighteenth amendment.

While the prohibition question was nonpartisan since Democrats and Republicans agreed on the slate of 50 wet delegates, the Democrats apparently swept the majority of their 79 judicial candidates into office. Three of the judges were elected to the State supreme court.

Indianapolis, June 5 (A.P.).—Indiana which legislation this year changed from a drastically dry to a most liberal State, will vote tomorrow on repeal of the eighteenth amendment with some prohibitionists believing the result will show the true trend of the Nation on the liquor question.

"If we can win in Indiana we can prevent repeal," Bishop James Cannon, jr., of the Methodist Episcopal Church South, declared.

County Policeman Becomes Sergeant

At a special meeting of the Prince Georges County Commissioners yesterday County Policeman Ralph Brown was appointed sergeant to take the place of the late Harvey G. Machen. Brown will be in charge of the Hyattsville station.

The men, who have served on the police force since its formation in June, 1931, were to be appointed to their respective positions for another two-year term. The death of Sergt. Machen Saturday night altered the plans. Albert Anderson, former chief of the Hyattsville police force, who was ousted with the incoming of a new town administration, was appointed to fill the vacancy made by the promotion of Brown.

Others to be reappointed to the force include Chief J. J. Crowley, Sergt. A. W. Hepburn, Privates Elon Turner, Oscar Beall, G. William Gray, William E. Clifton, Claude Reese and Arthur Brown. The county commissioners will attend the funeral of Sergt. Machen en masse. The regular weekly meeting will be postponed.

D.C. GOLD HOARDERS FACE PROSECUTION

National List of Thousand Names Is Sent Out by Justice Department.

A number of Washington residents are included in the list of suspected gold hoarders now being investigated by the Government, it was said yesterday at the Department of Justice, although no estimate of the number of local names could be obtained.

The first step in the long-awaited prosecution of gold hoarders was taken last week, when the Treasury Department sent to the Department of Justice a preliminary list of about 1,000 names. Formation of the list was delayed by a number of fictitious names and addresses given by persons who withdrew gold, Attorney General Cummings said.

Lists of suspected hoarders in their territory were immediately sent by phone and air mail to 22 offices of the Bureau of Investigation in the country. Persons who withdrew large amounts of gold will be visited by agents of the bureau, and will be asked what they did with the precious metal or gold certificates.

If the contraband is still in their possession, the holders will be open to prosecution. If they claim to have returned it to the bank or to have paid it to other persons, this alibi will be verified. In all cases the bulk of the gold will be traced to learn if it is still in private hands.

To make it impossible to plead ignorance of the law, hoarders will be shown the provisions of the act before prosecution is initiated. The list of suspected hoarders is not in the hands of the United States District Attorneys "as yet," Attorney General Cummings said. He also said that the list was not to be released for publication "as yet," intimating that publicity may be used later to force return of the gold.

Cases will be investigated individually, the larger ones first, Mr. Cummings said. A great many of those on the list withdrew $10,000 and $20,000 lots of gold and gold certificates, he reported, although some accounts were larger and there were a few withdrawals of a few hundred dollars. The law does not apply to gold hoardings of less than $100.

If gold has been sent out of the country, the owner can still be prosecuted, the Attorney General declared, although he admitted that it would be more difficult to convict. He asked for the cooperation of the people of the country in the return of gold, saying "those holding out are against their Government and failing in their patriotic duty."

TEN JURORS CHOSEN FOR TRIAL OF CLARK

Trial of Former Clerk in Montgomery Started at Rockville.

Ten jurors had been selected last night when Chief Judge Hammond Urner adjourned the third trial of Berry E. Clark, former clerk to the Montgomery County Commissioners, on charges of embezzling county funds. The ten who remained were tentative selections from a panel of 85, most of whom had been gathered from the streets throughout the county by Sheriff Richard H. Lansdale.

Judge Urner ordered that 40 more talesmen be garnered for this morning. The trial will resume at 9:30 o'clock today.

Those tentatively selected are William D. Cosgrave, Bethesda; Roger T. Pumphrey, Germantown; Levi W. Cochran, Rockville; Walter R. Baker, Dickerson; Harry Walton, Gaithersburg; Windsor Moxley, Damascus; Arthur A. Stonestreet, Norbeck; Lee W. Admonson, Rockville; Charles Beall, Derwood.

The original panel of 21 was quickly scaled down to five. Sheriff Landsdale then collected 26 more talesmen, and still later brought in nine more. Most of those excused were released from service after they told the judge they had formed opinions in the case, six were challenged by the defense, and four by the State.

Clark was dismissed as clerk to the commissioners March 26, 1932, and was arrested on charges of embezzlement after an auditor of his accounts disclosed an alleged shortage of approximately $50,000. He was indicted on 97 counts by the grand jury. Juries in the June term of the Circuit Court last year and in January of this year failed to reach a verdict and were discharged. This is the third time Clark has been brought to trial on the first count which alleges embezzlement of $426.

Davidson is only 22 years old, and one of the youngest councilmen ever elected at Kensington.

Radio Dial Flashes

By ROBERT D. HEINL

DR. HAROLD W. DODDS, newly elected president of Princeton University, will be heard over WMAL tonight at 8:15 in a discussion with Gov. William T. Gardiner, of Maine, and Hugh Reid, of the Virginia House of Delegates.

Dr. A. Lawrence Lowell, retiring president of Harvard University, will deliver what is believed will be his last public address when he speaks before the graduating class of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology over WJSV today at 10:30 a. m.

He will be introduced by the Institute's president, Dr. Karl Taylor Compton.

Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler will be heard at the Columbia University exercises (WRC, 12 noon.)

Newton D. Baker will be heard over WJSV this afternoon at 2 p. m., when he is the chief speaker at the first reunion of American and Canadian Rhodes Scholars. This gathering is being held in conjunction with the commencement ceremonies at Swarthmore College, just outside of Philadelphia. Mr. Baker's topic will be "The Super State."

It will be a great night for the radio announcers when they have to introduce the newly appointed member of the Federal Reserve Board from Chicago over the networks for the first time.

His name is Szymczak.

IN EMBARKING this week upon his annual summer leave of absence from the air, Frederic William Wile, Columbia's political analyst, hangs up a record in radio. With the close of his 1932-33 talks on "The Political Situation in Washington Tonight," which he will resume in the fall, Wile concludes ten successive seasons before the microphone with the same topic and title.

It is believed no other speaker now before the broadcasting public can claim such an air background. This covers a span almost as wide as radio itself. Wile started his weekly political reviews in 1923 before chain and network programs existed. He began with the original WRC station in Washington, conducted by RCA, before NBC was formed, and remained with National until he joined Columbia in the latter's early days in March, 1929.

As a political commentator from Washington, Wile ranks as the pioneer, as he doubtless will also in connection with transatlantic news broadcasting, in which he was first heard from the London Naval Conference in 1930.

Wile's recent Saturday night absences from the mike were occasioned by a bout with his dentist, which he says, the doctor won by three out and one to go.

CAPT. WILLIAM J. STANNARD will lead his United States Army Band in a new series of programs entitled, "Music of the Americas," to be inaugurated over WRC this morning at 10 o'clock.

The voice of the barker will be abroad in the land this afternoon when Duke Mills, owner of the freaks' concession at the World's Fair, in Chicago, parades some of his human oddities before the microphone. (WMAL,—2:30 p. m.)

Duke is a veteran of the sideshow business, and knows all the words. During his years with circuses and at county fairs, he has seen all the freaks, and he has a wealth of interesting stories about them.

SPEAKING almost on the eve of the scheduled adjournment of the first session of the Seventy-third Congress, Henry T. Rainey, Speaker of the House, will summarize for the National Radio Forum the accomplishments of that body in an address tonight at 9:30 o'clock over WRC.

Curtis A. Hodges, of the Greater National Capital committee, will speak over WMAL at 9 o'clock.

Plans are being formulated for the Whiteman Orchestra and a cast of performers to institute a Monday night two-hour broadcast to begin late this month over either the WEAF or WJZ networks.

Bing Crosby, who is picture making in Hollywood, will return to the air for a one-time appearance on "California Melodies" over WJSV tonight at 9 p. m. He will sing two numbers from his latest picture, "College Humor"—"Moonstruck" and "Learn to Croon."

Another highlight of this program will be an interview with Jack Oakie and Richard Arlen.

It happened at a New York hotel, where Ben Grauer, the announcer, was about to put on a dance program by Bert Lown's Orchestra. Bert stepped up to Grauer and said, "Say, Ben we've got Joe Savoldi and Red Cagle here tonight. How about putting them on the air?"

When Grauer had chatted with the athletes he said he'd be glad to introduce them to the public, if they would write their remarks out on paper. Joe didn't see why that was necessary.

"All right!" said Grauer firmly and a bit curtly. "If you won't write it out, you don't go on the air." Thereupon he flung the writing pad upon the table, turned on his heel and stalked off.

Just as Grauer was ready to announce other celebrities he saw two brawny fellows pushing their way through the throng.

"Oh, oh!" said Ben to himself. "I'm in for it."

Then, to his surprise, he heard Savoldi say, "Here you are, mister, if you don't mind, we'd like to speak and we got it written down. Do you think it will be all right?"

James R. Waters, who plays the role of Jake in the Goldbergs, arrived at the studio for rehearsal recently and was told that he could have the evening off, as the script did not call for his appearance.

Waters put on his hat and coat, bid everyone good night and departed. Five minutes later he reappeared, removed hat and coat and took his customary studio seat.

"I can't think of anything else to do," he explained. "I'd rather watch the show."

Budd Hulick, Col. Stoopnagle's aid-de-cramp-in-your-side, was exchanging quips with studio receptionist, Margaret Holland, who teased: "Well, I'm going home to Troy (N. Y.,) this week-end to get away from you wags. There'll be nothing more exciting than a church social."

"Hmm-mm," countered Budd. "Just try to get away!" A quick check-up revealed the comedians were due there on the same date to appear at a church jubilee. "Well, would jubilee it?" Margie added. "That's just across the way from my home and a young friend invited me to hear her sing in the choir—but said nothing about you!"

How'd Hulick that?

Home, James.

Then, too, there came bustling up Madison avenue a lad pushing a wheel chair. It was occupied by a woman recognized as a legless beggar who has been a familiar sight for many months in that neighborhood of smart shops.

The woman dismounted to the sidewalk and, before starting her round of alms seeking, she turned to the boy and in a quite audible voice said: "Meadows, have the carriage here at 7 o'clock."

The Pests!

On a recent afternoon, a teacher in one of those expensive private schools that overlook Riverside drive carried her pampered but prosperous little charges out to the park to take their photograph.

Attired in costly silk frocks and with their golden and chestnut locks newly curled they made a refreshing sight as they gathered in a classroom group. "How lovely," one thought, gaping at their youthful innocence. "It almost makes one believe in posterity or that we've turned the corner, or something."

Despite that sweet, unbeguiling appearance, the little lasses insisted on fidgeting, pinching each other and indulging in similar juvenile pranks as their teacher was struggling to focus her camera. Time after time she abandoned her camera to chide them into a dignified pose.

Finally, after the nineteenth time she had posed them, she returned to her camera with the remark: "That unmannerly bunch of spoiled little pests should be drowned just like unwanted kittens."

Rose Hobart became a dramatic actress, although her father was a well-known cellist and her mother an opera singer.

Will Mahoney made his first stage appearance in Spokane, Wash., at the age of 8.

There are more Indians than you would suspect in New York. Most of them are artists' models or vaudeville actors.

A New Yorker AT LARGE

By MARK BARRON.

New York.—One of the more hazardous facets of New York life lies in the unexpected, almost unbelievable sights to be encountered.

The other morning I was wafting myself up Fifth avenue, somewhat lost in the mood of a Sybarite brought on by the luxurious surroundings, when all traffic was violently halted at a corner.

The disturbance was caused by a rattling, decrepit old flivver banging its way defiantly along this lane of ermine and orchids. It was piloted by an impudent, grinning, red-haired girl, but what was more upsetting was the fact that in the seat beside her was perched a small, white pig oinking its disapproval of the effete city folk in a tone that strangely resembled a Bronx cheer.

Home, James.

Then, too, there came bustling up Madison avenue a lad pushing a wheel chair. It was occupied by a woman recognized as a legless beggar who has been a familiar sight for many months in that neighborhood of smart shops.

The woman dismounted to the sidewalk and, before starting her round of alms seeking, she turned to the boy and in a quite audible voice said: "Meadows, have the carriage here at 7 o'clock."

The Pests!

On a recent afternoon, a teacher in one of those expensive private schools that overlook Riverside drive carried her pampered but prosperous little charges out to the park to take their photograph.

Attired in costly silk frocks and with their golden and chestnut locks newly curled they made a refreshing sight as they gathered in a classroom group. "How lovely," one thought, gaping at their youthful innocence. "It almost makes one believe in posterity or that we've turned the corner, or something."

Despite that sweet, unbeguiling appearance, the little lasses insisted on fidgeting, pinching each other and indulging in similar juvenile pranks as their teacher was struggling to focus her camera. Time after time she abandoned her camera to chide them into a dignified pose.

Finally, after the nineteenth time she had posed them, she returned to her camera with the remark: "That unmannerly bunch of spoiled little pests should be drowned just like unwanted kittens."

Rose Hobart became a dramatic actress, although her father was a well-known cellist and her mother an opera singer.

Will Mahoney made his first stage appearance in Spokane, Wash., at the age of 8.

There are more Indians than you would suspect in New York. Most of them are artists' models or vaudeville actors.

POPE MADE DIRECTOR OF GEORGETOWN GAS

Oriental Building Meeting Reelects Officers and Present Board.

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

G. E. Pope, vice president and treasurer, Munsey Trust Co., and president of District of Columbia Bankers Association, has been elected a director of Georgetown Gas Light Co., it was announced yesterday, following the annual meeting of stockholders. He succeeds George E. Fraser, who resigned some time ago.

Directors reelected were Admiral Cary T. Grayson, Wilton J. Lambert, Marcy L. Sperry, Sidney P. Taliaferro, Corcoran Thom and Robert D. Weaver. The directorate of George town Gas Light Co. is now the same as that of Washington Gas Light Co., it was announced. The directorate's meeting of organization will be held June 28.

Reelection of all officers and directors of Oriental Building Association, No. 6, was announced yesterday following the annual meeting. They are: Charles H. Bauman, president; Henry E. Deckman, secretary; Charles W. Schaefer, treasurer; Carl Haneke, G. H. Schultze, John J. Kolb, William F. Ochsenreiter, August G. Herrmann, Chaplin B. Bauman, Charles Schaefer, Thomas B. Young, Benjamin H. Parker, directors.

New Deal Moves Quickly.

The new deal moves swiftly, but no faster than the Bond Club of Washington.

Next Friday afternoon, at 3 o'clock, the members of the club will assemble in the cool, breeze-swept board room of the American Security & Trust Co., atop the new American Security Building, to hear an inside story of the much-discussed new securities act from Paul V. Keyser, legislative counsel for the Investment Bankers Association of America.

There is particularly keen interest on the part of brokers and bankers in the new law because of the drastic liabilities it places on dealers as well as on corporations whose securities are offered for sale.

Harry J. Donoghue has resigned as assistant cashier of Federal-American National Bank & Trust Co., to become president and general manager of Washington Industrial Loan Co., located at 1407 K street northwest.

Newly Formed Unit.

The Washington Industrial Loan Co. is a newly-organized subsidiary of the Southeastern Industrial Bankers, Inc., a holding company operating a chain of industrial lending institutions.

Mr. Donoghue has had more than seventeen years of general banking experience in Washington. For a number of years he was treasurer of Merchants Bank & Trust Co., and continued in that capacity until that company merged with Federal-American National Bank & Trust Co.

He remained with the latter as assistant cashier and resigned to take up the duties of president and general manager of Washington Industrial Loan Co., and active director in Southeastern Industrial Bankers, Inc.

The District of Columbia Life Underwriters Association is taking as its guests 100 orphans from various institutions to the Republican-Democratic baseball game June 10. Loren L. Cluster, New York Life Insurance Co., is in charge of arrangements.

Cathedral School Awards 2 Prizes

Announcement of the Hyde Prize and the Helen Harker gift winners was made yesterday at the annual Flag Day ceremony at the National Cathedral School for girls. The winners were Miss Elizabeth Pope and Miss Katherine Wehling, respectively.

The exercises began with a procession of girls carrying flowers to the flag staff where a salute was led by Virginia Carson. The flag that has hung there in the past year was presented to Miss Mildred Wrightson of the graduating class for excellence in studies. The new flag was presented by Representative R. Ewing Thomason.

The Right Rev. James E. Freeman, Bishop of Washington, pronounced the benediction. The announcement of the prize winners was made by Miss Mabel Turner, principal of the school.

WHAT'S GOOD TO EAT

CAKES BOTH RICH AND DELICATE COME TO AID OF JUNE PARTIES

By ANN BARRETT

WEDDING receptions. Sweet-girl-graduation get-togethers. Going-away parties. June is the month when you're duty-bound to say it with cake. Rich wedding cakes studded with fruits, bathed in brandy, and (according to tradition) wrapped in old linen to ripen—if the wedding is to be a success.

Or maybe a big tempting sponge cake which authoress Katherine Brush prefers—party or no party. Or maybe that delicate cake praised by Geraldine Farrar, that looks toward heaven so lightly it bears the name "angel."

Other cakes you may have, of course, but these are the three that get headlined during the month of roses.

Wedding Cake.

The wedding cake is the most exciting, because it launches the biggest adventure. It's similar to a Christmas fruit cake. (There's an idea. If you haven't a wedding on this month, you might make up your Christmas fruit cake. The longer it stands, the better it tastes, you know.) It takes so many different ingredients, many folks like to have the baker or caterer make it. Others mix it and let the baker bake and decorate it. But here's how it goes, if you want to see it through yourself.

First cream 2 cups butter. Add 2 2-3 cups brown sugar gradually. Add 12 well-beaten egg yolks and 1 cup molasses. Then sift together 4 cups sifted pastry flour, 3 teaspoons cinnamon, 3 teaspoons allspice, 1 teaspoon mace, 1½ teaspoons nutmeg, ¼ teaspoon soda. Reserve 1 cup of this to mix with 3 pounds seeded raisins (chopped), 2 pounds Sultana raisins, 1 pound currants, 1 pound citron, ¼ pound each preserved lemon and orange rind (these peels all cut into thin slivers). Next, add sifted dry ingredients to first mixture alternately with 1 cup brandy (or grape juice). Then add floured fruit, and stir in 4 squares (ounces) melted cooking chocolate. Last, fold in beaten whites of 12 eggs. Turn the mixture into a buttered turk's head pan 14 inches in diameter. Steam 3 hours and bake 1½ hours at 275 F.

Usually two of these cakes are baked. One to be gorgeously decorated. And cut by the bride at the wedding feast. The other left unfrosted, cut up ahead of time and fitted into the tiny little dream boxes given out to guests.

Sponge Cake.

For a sponge cake that keeps good company with any kind of ice cream for every kind of party, here is a good standard recipe.

First beat 6 egg yolks till thick and lemon-colored. Add 1 cup sifted granulated sugar a little at a time, beating it in well. Then add 2 tablespoons lemon juice, ½ tablespoon grated lemon rind, and beat again. Next, combine 1 cup sifted pastry flour with ¼ teaspoon salt, and sift 5 times. Fold this into the first mixture. Then fold in 6 egg whites, beaten stiff but not dry. Turn into an ungreased turk's head pan about 7 inches across and 4 to 5 inches deep. Bake in the center of the oven 1 hour at 315 F. Invert pan on cake rack and let cake cool this way an hour. Serve iced or plain.

Angel Cake.

Angel cake (which is a kind of first cousin to sponge cake—no liquid or fat in either) requires the same care in measuring, mixing and baking.

Here's how the standard recipe goes: First add ¼ teaspoon salt to 1 cup egg whites (8 to 10). Beat till foamy. Then add 1 teaspoon cream of tartar and beat till stiff enough to stand up in peaks (but not dry). Then carefully fold in 1¼ cups sifted granulated sugar 2 tablespoons at a time. Then fold in the flavoring—which may be 1 teaspoon vanilla, or 1½ teaspoons orange extract, or ¾ teaspoon vanilla and ¼ teaspoon almond extract. Last, fold in 1 cup sifted pastry flour—sift 5 times after measuring.

Turn the mixture into an ungreased turk's head pan 7 inches across by 4 or 5 inches deep. Put cake into center of oven. Bake it 30 minutes at 275 F. Then increase heat to 325 and bake another 30 minutes. When done, invert the pan on a cake rack and let the cake cool itself out of the pan. This will take an hour or so, and the process must not be hurried. Serve this cake iced or plain.

Send for More Recipes.

In order to get all three of these recipes into this article, I've curbed my longing to tell you about icings and variations and what not. But I've put all these extras into a brand-new bulletin "Fine Cakes for Parties" that practically tells all. Including how to make a special cake for the bride (with tokens in it). And a special cake for the bridegroom (he's supposed to keep it five years, poor dear!). And how to make beautiful sponge jelly rolls oozing luscious orangey or lemony or French cream fillings besides the usual jelly. Even with no wedding in the offing, you'll find this bulletin helpful.

The Meanderer

Roams From City Streets Into Wide Green of Montgomery County—Visits Women From Farms.

Telephone questions to The Meanderer's column to The Washington Post, National 4205, Extension 19; or address The Meanderer, The Washington Post, inclosing self-addressed stamped envelope for reply.

Motor meanderings, pleasanter than tramping the hot city streets, today led many miles to a meeting of women from farm homes in the Rockville High School. "Spring Meeting of the Homemakers Club of Montgomery County," the program said.

Fashions appeared in this meeting of homemakers, fashions just as authentic as any fashions the Meanderer has learned of in the city shops. A fashion show of women's clothes made at home occupied a prominent place. Models in smart costumes paraded across the stage before the admiring women. The lines of fashion were not the only appeal in these carefully presented gowns and coats. Some of the women who saw the garments presented were remembering the needle pricks incurred in the sewing that had made the fashion show possible, and the hours of ripping, turning, and pressing before they ever began to sew on the fashionable garments.

And the best part of this fashion show was that some of the garments cost 5 cents—just the cost of a spool of thread, and nothing shown cost more than $11. The 5-cent garment, of course, was a made-over and the $11 garment was from new material.

Rabbit fur on one of the well-tailored home-made coats came from a rabbit raised on a Montgomery County farm. The principal cost of the fur was $2 for its tanning.

For $7 a week, each, which will cover their entire individual expenses, several hundred Montgomery County women will enjoy the annual short course for women at the University of Maryland from June 19 to June 25. Concentrated work and pleasure combine to make this short course of compelling interest and an annual vacation for the busy farm homemakers.

The women's cooperative farm markets, comparatively new as a business venture in Maryland, have been organized from older organizations into business concerns with decided monetary success. Children have been kept in school, taxes have been paid, family accounts have been cleared from receipts from the women's cooperative marketing project. Three such markets operate in Montgomery County.

A change in market day is announced for the cooperative market on upper Wisconsin avenue. Instead of being open for business on Wednesday of each week, as well as Saturday, this market will open on Tuesdays. Beginning next week all the similar markets of the county, one in Bethesda, one in Takoma Park and another on the old Georgetown road, will open on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays. The Meanderer has the addresses of the markets for all readers interested in shopping with the farm women today.

Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt has set her approval on the cooperative marketing plan with a recent visit to such groups of farm women and with standing orders for tea cakes and other foods for the White House, selected from the dainties prepared by the expert cooks on the farms.

Chickens prepared for cooking, weighed after they are ready for the pan, meticulously clean, sell readily in these markets, though their price appears to be higher than that of chickens in other markets. Strawberries may seem to cost a bit more there, but they come directly from the farms, picked just before market day, and are larger, redder and seem sweeter than berries that go through the usual commercial channels. Black cherries are arriving in the markets and blackberries scarcely arrive before they are whisked away by customers.

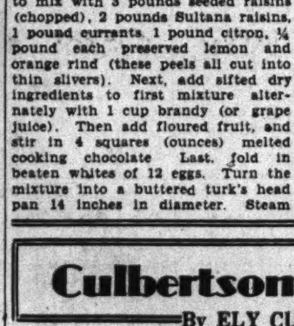
THE RULE OF EIGHT.

MR. H. WARE CALDWELL, of Chicago, Ill., chides me gently for a statement made by me in regard to the honor-trick table and the Rule of Eight. He points out quite correctly, that some tenace holdings and freak distributions may upset these careful and ordinarily correct calculations. For instance when each player holds a K J x, counted as 1 honor-trick, and an A Q, counted as 1½, it is perfectly possible that there should be 10 honor-tricks in all the hands around the table, and thus there might be more held by the opponents than shown by subtracting the honor-tricks held from 8-8½. Like all rules, the Rule of Eight is based upon the law of averages. Freak distributions, whether of honor-tricks or something else, or more or less a law unto themselves.

In support of his brief Mr. Caldwell cites the hand below:

North, Dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.



The bidding: (The letter bids in table refer to numbered explanatory paragraphs.)

North	East	South	West
1♣ (1)	Pass	7♣ (2)	Dbl. (3)
Pass	Pass	Redbl. (4)	Pass
Pass	Pass

1—North's bid, vulnerable, is certainly a minimum.

2—South holds 5 honor-tricks, but he holds only two Aces. It is true he had a right to expect something better from his partner's vulnerable Opening bid. However, there were other and better means by which the possible trick-taking power of the hand could be determined. A better bid is five clubs. The Jump to a Grand Slam over an Opening bid of one is never good. Control of all four suits must be definitely ascertained before bidding a Grand Slam.

3—West is perhaps unduly optimistic in doubling. He has an Ace, it is true, but he is not in the lead and has no assurance whatsoever that the suit he desires will be led.

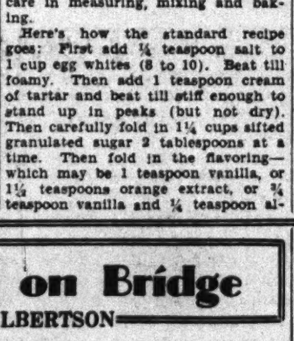
4—South should not redouble. North can have 3 honor-tricks and yet not have both Aces, in view of the fact that all of South's honor-tricks include tenace combinations.

Against the seven-club contract, East opened the Ace of diamonds, then switched to a heart, which West won with his Ace, and returned a heart, East ruffing. East returned a heart, and West ruffed. Thus the Grand-Slam contract was defeated 2,800 points. Mr. Caldwell states that the South player was a friend of his, and he hopes that the 2800-set will make him slightly more cautious. In this hope I heartily join. However, the Rule of Eight still is a good rule to determine the adverse honor strength. It will work with accuracy on almost all types of hands. The tremendous set suffered on this hand, which no doubt was overbid, even according to the Rule of Eight, was due to the freakishness of the distribution far more than the missing honor-tricks.

TOMORROW'S HAND.

This hand was played by two of the world's ranking players. What should be the eventual contract and how should the play of the hand be planned?

South, Dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.



The hand will be discussed in tomorrow's article.

What Today Means

By MARY BLAKE

"GEMINI."

IF June 6 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 10:20 a. m. to 11:45 a. m., from 4 p. m. to 5 p. m., and from 6:45 p. m. to 7:30 p. m. The danger periods are from 8:10 a. m. to 9:15 a. m. and from 9:20 p. m. to 10:45 p. m.

You will probably feel that the day's activity has been well worth while. The usual difficulties will be encountered and temptations to overcome, but you will feel motivated and led to do right by a power without yourself. You should find among people generally a sincere striving to live in harmony with others.

The child born on this June 6 will probably be an evasive little one; his answers will seldom be direct and it will be difficult to "pin him down" to yes or no for an answer. He will be a great one to barter among his acquaintances and he will seldom be outdone.

If June 6 is the date of your birth, you are probably one who procrastinates a great deal. You never plan more than a few hours ahead and your plans are subject to change or reversed on a moment's notice. You are more the artist than the business man in temperament; the chances are that you will have to devote your life to a career in business and you will never seem to quite fit into the picture. Money runs through your hands like water and unless you are careful you will find your obligations running far beyond your means. You are a dreamer about what you are going to do. Strangely, a good number of your ideas are thoroughly practicable, but you can never "get down to earth" long enough to carry them out. Your greatest fault is quite possibly that you are thoroughly satisfied with yourself and consequently you do not seek to improve your ways. You are a likable person, but at times you drive your intimates to distraction by your fancifulness.

Born on June 6, you can not be classed as unselfish; you lack consideration for others, and particularly is this true in your relations with your mate. You will probably experience little sickness during your life. Your life will not be an unhappy one.

Successful people born on June 6:
Nathan Hale, Revolutionary soldier.
John Trumbull, soldier and artist.
Catherine A. Warfield, poet and author.

RECOVERY PLAN AT STAKE.

A row of major proportions appears to be brewing over President Roosevelt's economy program. At present there is every indication that Congress will insist upon modifying the new schedule of allowances to veterans, while the President is apparently ready to veto the measure unless it is accompanied by additional tax levies. Mr. Roosevelt is having his first serious spat with Congress.

The significance of this controversy is far-reaching. The entire Roosevelt program is contingent upon drastic economies in the regular operating expenses of the Government to make way for vast expenditures designed to hasten business recovery. If the economy program is scuttled, the entire rehabilitation program will be in jeopardy. The Treasury would hesitate to float bonds for public works and business interests would be discouraged if Congress should leave the budget for ordinary receipts and expenditures far out of balance.

Leaders of the House of Representatives are aware of this danger. They are inclined, therefore, to postpone a showdown on the issue until sentiment has had time to crystallize. A second tax program added to that designed to finance the public works bond issue would be extremely unpopular. There seems to be little possibility that Congress would approve such a measure. Yet there is a powerful sentiment in favor of handing a plum to veterans before congressmen return home to report their achievements. Speaker Rainey does little credit to the intelligence or patriotism of the House when he says that at present it would probably vote for restoration of the veterans' dole and refuse to approve new taxes, but his opinion seems to be well founded.

President Roosevelt's leadership will be put to the supreme test. There is no question that he has public sentiment behind him, or will have it when the issue is fully explained to the public. No achievement of the Roosevelt administration has been so generously praised as the economy bill. It was a remarkable coup which could not have been accomplished except for the critical circumstances in which the country found itself in early March. Now Congress is threatening to restore some of the old abuses which brought the expenses of caring for veterans to nearly $1,000,000,000 per year. If Congress is too stubborn to yield and this issue is carried to the electorate, it will be extremely embarrassing for congressmen who are responsible for this revolt.

Orators on Capitol Hill are attempting to camouflage the issue. They speak in the name of disabled veterans, but the fight they are conducting is not in behalf of the war-disabled. President Roosevelt has promised to relinquish the economies imposed upon that small class of veterans actually disabled by their war service. The class which the Senate wishes to favor is that large group which is "presumed" to have suffered some ill effects from the war. This group would be returned to the pensions roll under the Senate amendment to independent offices bill, with provisions that their benefits could not be cut more than 25 per cent. The Senate is trying to maintain doles for "combat disabilities" created by congressional fiction.

By demanding higher taxes if this amendment to the economy act is approved President Roosevelt has put the issue in terms that can be understood by every one in and out of Congress. It is an extremely difficult task to find sources of revenue to finance the public works bond issue. Would Congress dare to add another $170,000,000 in taxes to the overburdened public to pay handouts to a special group of men who have no legitimate claim to them? It seems incredible. Hence, the Senate amendment must be defeated.

It appears that there is only one alternative to acceptance of the President's demand, and that is chaos on Capitol Hill. Defeat of the economy program would be a severe shock to the country. It would destroy much of the confidence and hope that have been built up by the reconstruction program. Adjournment of Congress would be delayed, and a dark shadow would be cast over the industrial recovery bill. If the revolt against economy is not checked, the President may feel compelled to veto the independent offices measure.

The House does well to approach this issue deliberately. Its decision may have a vital bearing upon the entire administration program and upon the general welfare of the country. Under these circumstances there is only one safe course for the House to take.

BACK TO THE HOME.

Germany has evolved a novel plan designed to strike at the heart of unemployment and lack of purchasing power. Officials have observed that marriages have fallen much below the normal rate during the last few years, with the result that thousands of women are holding jobs and the demand for household goods is extremely weak. Hence, the Government has decreed a tax on unmarried men and women to finance "marriage aid loans."

The obvious aim of this decree is to take women out of industry and put them back in the home. Any young man who marries a working girl may obtain from the government a loan of $275 without interest. This loan is good only for the purchase of furniture and household utensils. As a condition of the loan the bride must obligate herself not to accept a job until the loan has been repaid at 1 per cent a month, unless her husband's salary should fall below $34 per month. If, therefore, the husband has a salary on which the two can live, the wife must refrain from taking a job for eight years.

German officials are alarmed at the declining birth rate in that country. Last year the number of births was fewer than 1,000,000 for the first time since 1841. Germany has the lowest birth rate in Europe. Fear of race suicide has driven the Hitler government to encourage marriages and to place special taxes on unmarried adults.

But a motive of more immediate concern may also be detected in this action. Women have gone into business and industry in all parts of the world during recent years. At a time when science and invention have been replacing manpower by electricity and steam, women have enormously increased the number of individuals competing for jobs. Women believe they have an equal right with men to enter economic pursuits, and in asserting that right they have made a distressing contribution to unemployment among their husbands, sons and brothers.

In 1930 22 per cent of all women and girls over 10 years of age in the United States were gainfully employed outside of their homes. Sixty years ago only 1,836,000 women held jobs in this country. The 1930 census revealed that 10,752,000 women and girls are breadwinners. This number almost strikes a balance with the number of men who are unemployed. While the use of labor-saving machinery has been growing at an astonishing rate women have rushed into business and industry and pushed up the percentage of the whole population gainfully employed outside of the home from 44.3 per cent in 1870 to 49.5 per cent in 1930.

It is idle to expect the economic system to function normally when excessively large numbers of women assume the role of industrial producers and thus fail to establish homes where consumption of goods may be normal. Feminists are inclined to the view that their right to work ought not to be infringed, but sooner or later they must realize that insistence upon that right may impose sweatshop conditions upon their husbands as well as upon themselves.

It is not to be supposed that the United States will try to impose special taxes on bachelors or to finance new marriages, but a little intelligent thinking on this problem by the women of America might speed the country on its way to recovery. If the women who are not compelled to work by economic necessity would go back to their normal function as home-makers, the unemployment problem would be almost solved.

SALES TAX NEEDED.

It is difficult to explain congressional prejudice against a general sales tax except on the old theory of giving a dog a bad name. The imperative necessity of a heavy increase in Government income to meet the expenditures required for emergency relief plans is patent. Income taxes have proved unreliable as revenue producers in a period of declining revenue for individuals and corporations alike. The efforts of the lawmakers to avoid a comprehensive sales tax, which would spread dependable and substantial collections in an equitable and comparatively painless manner, are all the more inexplicable since they have endeavored to impose excessive sales taxes on specific products.

The saturation point appears to have been reached in trying to soak the incomes of the rich who are no longer rich and in imposing special excise levies upon specific articles already heavily taxed. Disclosures in current legislative investigations may result in some changes designed to stop leaks through the income tax, but these will not be sufficient by any means to meet the emergency.

The director of the budget prepared alternative taxation plans that pointed clearly to the general manufacturers' sales tax as the simplest, surest and least burdensome method of raising needed revenue in this emergency. It is not as though a sales tax were an untried measure. It is in successful operation by both national and State governments and has given general satisfaction, as a rule, wherever inaugurated. The people find it easy to pay, contributions being automatically graduated according to the purse and purchases of citizens. With the more staple necessities exempt, this tax offers no hardship to the poorer classes. Governments find the sales tax readily and cheaply collected. It provides a much more regular flow into the Treasury than other forms of taxation.

It is not too late for both the Senate and House to consider replacing the various nuisance and questionable excise levies with the sales tax. The opposition of the President to a sales tax, expressed before he was inaugurated, probably would not stand in the way of reconsideration of this effective means of raising revenue if it now appears to be most practical. His budget director has outlined its possibilities, and the President himself has no scruples against changing his opinion.

HARD ON KIDNAPERS.

Kidnaping is not as profitable as it was a few months ago. Fiends who steal children and threaten them with death in an effort to obtain ransom money are running into greater difficulties than they formerly encountered. Uncle Sam is now on the job. The transportation of an abducted person from one State to another is a Federal crime, punishable by life imprisonment. Kidnapers must be clever indeed to escape the long arm of the Federal law as well as the shorter arms of State officials and municipal police.

Out in Kansas City, Mo., the kidnaping of Miss McElroy, daughter of the city manager, has been solved. Two men are under arrest, and the promoter of the crime has confessed, naming all of the participants. Eight individuals have been indicted by a Federal grand jury for transporting this young woman across a State line and sending extortion letters through the mails. These criminals face life imprisonment under the Federal law or perhaps hanging under the Missouri statute.

This is the second major kidnaping that has been completely solved in recent weeks. The McMath case in Massachusetts yielded to solution even more quickly than did the Kansas City crime. But the important thing is that kidnapers are being caught and sent to speedy punishment. If the Government, in cooperation with the States, could once prove that kidnaping is a certain route to the gallows or even to life imprisonment, this atrocious crime would soon be abandoned as a means of obtaining easy money.

Inability of local officials to cope with organized kidnap gangs encouraged an alarming increase in crimes of this type. Now a happy change in conditions seems to be underway. The Government is helping to stamp out this despicable crime. Would-be kidnapers may take warning from what has happened in Massachusetts and Kansas. The execution of a few criminals who plan to murder for money would be a salutary influence. Congress may find it advisable to follow up the measure it passed a few months ago by making kidnaping a capital offense under Federal law. No punishment is too severe for fiends who murder children for money.

If the session doesn't end soon the Congressional Record will have to be tapped for dropsy.

THE EMBARGO RESOLUTION

From the Houston Post.

As adopted by the House, the arms embargo resolution provides simply that the President be empowered to prevent shipment of arms from the country, when, in his discretion, such action is desirable.

As amended by the Senate foreign relations committee, the resolution provides that when the President orders an embargo on arms shipments, the embargo shall apply to all nations involved in the dispute to which it pertains. The object of the Senate committee's amendment is to force this country into a position of neutrality.

Small wonder that President Roosevelt and Secretary Hull are dissatisfied with the resolution as amended, and want the committee's action rescinded. In the first place, the committee's amendment is out of harmony with the policy as outlined at Geneva by Norman Davis, in which it was set forth that in the future the United States would be willing to consult with other powers in regard to dealing with nations threatening or upsetting peace. In other words, it was promised that this country would not longer be automatically neutral in all controversies arising between other powers, but would lend a hand in seeing that justice is done.

In the next place, if the committee's plan were in operation, little could be done to prevent or stop a war, and it might serve to aid the aggressor, and work to the detriment of the defender. For instance, if the United States should put an embargo on arms to apply to both participants in the Sino-Japanese war, it would not stop the combat, because other powers would continue to sell to the belligerents. If an embargo were placed on shipments to both powers, the result would be to handicap China and give the advantage to Japan, the aggressor. Japan is better able to supply her own munitions than is China. In reality, then, to place an embargo against both Japan and China would be to put this country in the position of helping Japan.

If there is to be an embargo power vested in the President, let the President be left free to exercise that power as he sees fit. Sometimes the best way to stop a war is to handicap the aggressor.

ARIOSTO.

Four hundred years ago unto this very day
The poet Ariosto died.
Now comes a friend of his to me to say
A word of him in pride;
A friend he never knew or never saw
Or dreamed would be,
Proving that death's unalterable law
Is fallacy.

Four hundred years from this small world away!
Four centuries gone!
And still his friends continue day by day
To bear him on.

They read his "Furioso" o'er and o'er,
Take what is given
And share his sparkling genius more and more
As one who lives.

I had forgotten him until his friend
Dropped in to call,
Fancying, of course, that death must be the end
Of one and all.
But what is time to beauty shaped in thought
Which never ends?
Dead Ariosto, by the works he wrought,
Still keeps his friends.

The Kite Couldn't Keep Its Balance Without the String That Holds It Down.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

WHEN kings were absolute monarchs, few were normal men. They found pleasure in wanton murder; they were drunkards; they lived but to gratify their lusts.

And soon or late they became fanatics or madmen or imbeciles. They finished their d. s in a hell of their own making.

Inbreeding, you will say, made them congenital idiots. But the Pharaohs of Egypt married their sisters, as Abel did, and some of them were great and wise men.

There is another explanation.

Read the history of those possessed of great inherited wealth. You will find few normal people among them. They were eccentrics. A poor man who did things equally strange would be locked up as a lunatic.

How do you account for the "queerness" of wealthy eccentrics? It isn't inbreeding in their case.

The truth is that man is a herd animal, restrained and upheld since time immemorial by tribal taboos and customs. He isn't equipped to live alone. And as he goes mad of loneliness when denied fellowship, so he goes mad for want of restraint when he becomes a law unto himself.

A fragment of a star, wandering in space beyond the attraction of any other body, keeps no regular course because it is free of the law of gravity.

So men and women, free as gods because of rank or wealth, are cut off from the restraints that keep other mortals sane.

They are not equipped to be gods. Yet they have the responsibility of gods, for there is no power to restrain them. They can violate custom and precedent. They can break civil and moral laws.

They are alone and loose. Nothing but conscience controls them. No power under heaven can say: "Thou shalt." The herd no longer gives them mental balance, sympathy or moral support. And the responsibility of absolute freedom breaks them.

Observe the spoiled progeny of the rich—thrice married at 25, unstable, irresponsible, bored, immoral. What is their fault?

They simply aren't normal. Without discipline or restraint, the responsibility of making their own laws makes their minds as abnormal as their existence.

People can't stand prosperity because it isn't their nature to live free of restraints. Let them become indifferent to public opinion and they are as helpless as a rudderless ship.

Man must, at any cost, be free of tyranny; but let him be thankful for the restraining influence of the herd. It is the tribal law of gravity that keeps his feet on the ground.

POLITICAL COMMENT

The Bank Reform Bill.

Kansas City Times.

Virtually unanimous action of both Senate and House in passage of the banking bill is evidence of a determination in Congress that public confidence in the country's financial institutions shall be fully restored and permanently maintained. Despite certain features that are open to serious question, the measure soon to be passed on for Presidential indorsement or rejection is calculated to attain the end desired by Congress and by every disinterested person in the country.

A question of immediate concern will be the attitude of the President toward this legislation. It is to be considered that if this bill should be rejected then the whole matter of permanent banking reform might, of necessity, go over to the next regular session of Congress. Also, that while the pending measure may not embody all the Executive's ideas on sound banking and may contain some that he would not have proposed, it nevertheless contains provisions (for example, requirement for separation of deposit and security business by banks) that would seem entirely consonant with his previously expressed views.

Whiskers as By-Product.

Los Angeles Times.

Russia has another five-year plan. She is making felt out of whiskers. She grows the raw material on the faces of her men and then makes the felt into boots. Thus are both ends played against each other. And after the whisker crop is harvested we may be able to recognize the Soviet.

Repudiation.

New York Times.

Speaking of the international effects of American repudiation, what of the countries which we are insisting ought to live up to their contracts with us? Senator Reed, of Pennsylvania, said on Saturday that repudiating our gold obligations made him feel like apologizing to France for all that he had said in denunciation of her default on her debt to the United States. Certainly we can no longer condemn in others what we not only permit but glorify in ourselves.

Consider also how our own repudiation vitiates the chief argument which our Government has used in trying to settle and collect the foreign war debts. Again and again we have dwelt upon "ability to pay." But in our own case we have now held that to be no criterion at all. Nobody questions the capacity of the United States to pay the principal and interest on its bonds as it solemnly contracted to do. But we now throw all that out of the window. We have ample ability to pay but not the will.

Can we expect that this example of bad faith will be lost upon our foreign debtors? If they are as careless about national honor and the integrity of the Government as we are showing ourselves to be, they would be justified in saying to us: "The villainy you teach me I will execute, and it shall go hard but I will better the instruction."

No Comparison.

Do you owe the nurse and maid?
Just forget it!
Do you owe Old Doctor Kraut
For those tonsils he took out
Or his treatment for the gout?
Just forget it!

V.

Did you contract for a loan?
Do not worry!
Are you dunned by telephone?
What's the hurry?
In the years now far away
Did you sign a note to pay
In the money of that day?
Scurry! Scurry!

VI.

Does an old-time debt annoy?
Change the contract!
Do the stipulations cloy?
Change the contract!
Is it quite a burden now
Causing furrows on your brow;
Would you dodge it all? Here's how—
Change the contract!

So shower me with stocks and I
Will share the risk with Morgan!

Miss Louise M. Popp, a New York telephone girl, won $119,000 in the Derby Sweepstakes. The question as to what a hello girl should do after she has received $119,000 thus becomes a topic of the day, but if we were in her place we'd spend one final day giving peevish subscribers wrong numbers and screaming "Phooey!" to the threats to write the president.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Retired Federal Employe Surveys World Problems and Draws a Conclusion.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: For several years I have been getting quite a kick out of the problem of international readjustment. Most of the questions involved having more than two sides, the effort to keep up with them was sufficient relaxation for the mind of any reasonable retired Government clerk. But at last I am beginning to get a little too much fed up on it.

When Japan defied the League of Nations I thought it was the beginning of a fresh spell of excitement. But the way the league marked time subsequently lessened my interest. In the meantime arguments about world economics as related to military wastefulness have grown tiresome.

The four-power pact promised well as a new diversion, but in its final shape it leaves me cold. I think The Post dignified it too much in euphemistically terming it "the quadrilateral treaty." I think pact is the better word—packed with dynamite. As long as the League of Nations is still marking time I would call the four-power pact a presumptuous imperium in imperio. In my belief it won't take many more years of this costly nonsense to teach us that Uncle Sam can never be better off than when he stays at home and minds his own business.

C. P., RETIRED.

Gallery God Expresses Pungent Opinion of House of Representatives.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I have always been a great partisan of the House of Representatives and almost continuously for the last 36 years have sat in its galleries, but unless its decorum improves it will lose a well-wisher, and I will transfer my affections to the Senate.

This has been the noisiest House I have ever seen, and it does not leave a good impression with the visitors. During the public works bill the presiding officer, Mr. Lozier, sat there as if dazed for 15 minutes, with bedlam reigning supreme, and it presented a sorry spectacle.

I have known all of the Speakers since Cannon, but the greatest parliamentarian produced in this century was the late James R. Mann, of Illinois, and the greatest presiding officer is Lindsay C. Warren, of North Carolina.

Mrs. Curtis Dall Goes To Her Home in New York.

THE PRESIDENT'S DAUGHTER, Mrs. Curtis Dall, who has been a guest at the White House for several days, has returned to her home in New York. Miss Martha Ferguson, daughter of Mrs. John C. Greenway, of Tucson, Ariz., and her fiance, Mr. Charles J. Breasted, son of Prof. James Breasted, of the University of Chicago, have also returned to their respective homes.

The Ambassador of Great Britain and Lady Lindsay recently entertained at an informal reception when the occasion was to present to the retiring Minister of Bulgaria and Mme. Radeff, a handsome gift from a group of their friends in the diplomatic corps. The presentation was made at the British Embassy because Sir Ronald and M. Radeff are friends of many years, having served their respective governments at the same time in Constantinople some years ago.

The gift was a bowl of antique silver, on a mahogany pedestal on which was a silver plate engraved with the names of the donors. The Minister and Mme. Radeff have sailed for Europe, where the former will report to the foreign office.

The Acting Secretary of State, Mr. William Phillips, has been joined by Mrs. Phillips and their eldest daughter, Miss Beatrice Phillips, who made her debut a year ago. Maj. Gen. and Mrs. Thomas Q. Ashburn will entertain at a picnic supper at the Army and Navy Country Club on Sunday evening for the latter's sister, Mrs. Allen Ashburn, of California.

Maj. Gen. and Mrs. Merriette W. Ireland will leave today for Chicago to attend the Century of Progress Exposition. They will go later to Colorado to visit their son and daughter-in-law, Dr. and Mrs. Paul Ireland, returning to Washington in August.

Mrs. Taft Will Depart For Canada Next Week.

Mrs. William Howard Taft, widow of Chief Justice Taft, will close her home on Wyoming avenue the first of next week and will go to her summer place at Murray Bay, Canada, where she will have with her for a part of the season her children and grandchildren.

Hon. Hubert Howard, son of Lord Howard, former Ambassador of Great Britain, is in Washington for several days at the Willard.

Miss Eleanor Preston is in New York.

Mrs. Joseph E. Washington has as her guests her son, Mr. G. A. Washington, of New York, and Mr. and Mrs. Augustus Blagden and Mrs. Lloyd Coates, of Philadelphia.

The first of a series of three summer concerts will be given tomorrow evening on the Esplanade of the Pan-American Union. Dr. Leo S. Rowe, director general of the Pan-American Union, has issued invitations for the concert and the program will be entirely of Latin-American music.

The well-known tenor, Senor Orits Tirado, will be the soloist, while the United States Marine Band, under the leadership of Capt. Taylor Branson, has prepared a special program for the occasion.

The former Minister of Canada and Mrs. Vincent Massey are in New York for a short time.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter D. Denegre are on their way to their summer estate at Manchester, Mass.

Mrs. George Barnett will be joined tomorrow by her daughter, Mrs. Robert Dickey, who is returning from Europe.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Lee Boatwright, jr., have as their guest for a week at their home in Alexandria, Miss Marjorie Snowden, of Media, Pa.

Capt. and Mrs. John H. Gibbons have left for their summer home in Connecticut.

New York Society Meets This Evening.

The annual business meeting of the New York State Society for the election of officers and trustees during the coming year will take place in the gold ballroom of the Shoreham Hotel this evening at 8 o'clock. The nominating committee, under the chairmanship of Mr. H. J. McClure, has selected the following ballot for the society's consideration: Mr. William R. Vallance, president; Dr. Sterling B. Carr, treasurer; Miss Margaret Harrison, secretary; Miss Helen Brown, historian; Mr. Willard W. Gatchell, financial secretary; Representative John Taber, Representative John J. Boylan, Mr. James E. Black, Mr. C. F. Hammerly, Mrs. J. Thompson Wailes and Mr. G. Kibby Munson, trustees.

The following candidates for the offices have been independently nominated: Dr. W. J. Davis, president; Dr. Lamar Harris, vice president; Mrs. Mary D. Lightfoot, vice president; Miss Leona Decker, vice president; Mr. C. M. Little, treasurer; Miss Teresa Paro, secretary; Mrs. Estelle Douglas, historian; Representative John Taber, Representative John J. Boylan, Mr. Maurice E. Sands, Mr. Gabriel Murphy, Mr. Walter D. An exhibition by the pupils of the Yard School of Art Appreciation for Children will be shown in the second-floor lobby of the Central Building of the Public Library at Eighth and K streets from today until June 30, according to Dr. George F. Bowerman, librarian.

The school is under the direction of Miss Margaret Moffat Yard, who seeks to stimulate the purely imaginative faculties of her pupils. They are taught color and design, then allowed to give full play to their individuality of expression. The pictures, therefore, show unusual originality and freshness of conception.

Particularly notable among them for design and the use of color is "The Fish Parade," by Jack Youngquist, a 13-year-old artist. "The Cherry Trees," by Helen Walleck, 11, is a naive version of Washington's most popular subject. A 6-year-old, Dorothy Mayo, shows the "House of Children" and "Dutch Children," combining unusual talent and directness. Young Margheritta Sterling shows illustrations of Eugene Field subjects, which are imaginative to a degree.

The exhibition is sponsored by the Art League.

Pastel portraits of children by Edith McCartney will be shown until June 17 in the boys and girls room on the second floor of the Mount Pleasant Branch of the Public Library.

Miss McCartney, who has just completed studies of the grandchildren of President Roosevelt, Sistie and Buzzie Dall, is a well-known portrait artist, whose work in the difficult medium of pastel shows unusual distinction in its handling of delicate color.

The Nature Section of the Woman's Club of Chevy Chase will have a flower tea tomorrow afternoon at the home of Mrs. Joseph T. Maguire on Hesketh street. Mrs. Edward C. Babb, leader of the section, will be assisted in receiving by Mrs. Harold G. Moulton, Mrs. Victor Whitlock, Mrs. Truman Abbe, Mrs. E. A. Goldenweiser, Mrs. Arthur Palmer, Mrs. George S. Jamieson, Mrs. Thomas H. McDonald, and Mrs. John A. Lane.

The new president of the club, Mrs. Frank M. Hoadley, will preside at the tea table. The members of the club will have on display bouquets of flowers from their own gardens.

THE FEDERAL DIARY

By GEORGE D. RILEY

Anne Howe says

Government employes up to their necks in hot water are urged to "sing."

WHILE we do not care to encourage letters without semblance of identification of the correspondent, below is a slant still widely held throughout the States and tacitly encouraged by members of Congress:

"Where do you get that drivel about salaries of Government employes being 'lower than for similar work in private employment?' Most of them are overpaid, and could not earn 75 per cent of their salaries outside of the Government service. You do not see any of them resigning, do you? As a class, they are least entitled to consideration. They are pampered pets and the luckiest people in the world."—One Who Knows.

The best answer to "One Who Knows" is to say that as soon as the darker clouds of depression lift, watch the exodus of employes from Government service into private endeavor.

The time will come again when Uncle Sam will plead with the States to send men and women here to perform the work of Government. Heretofore, Government workers at least have had stability-of-job guaranty. That has gone now.

Miss Iva P. Himes (*), Administrative Division, Internal Revenue Bureau, has returned from a vacation, having enjoyed the many historical places of interest in that great State of Virginia. She also spent some time getting rid of those pesky bugs upon her wonderful rose bushes.

Miss Himes is an enthusiastic booster for the Old Dominion State, ranking with those that think Florida and California are as delightful as heaven. These boosters should tune up their musical chords to the key of F flat and sing that wonderful song entitled, "Ohio, Beautiful Ohio."

Silliman Evans, Fourth Assistant Postmaster General, issues an order of "economy in the use of electric light. Lights must be turned out when not needed. The economy program of the administration covers even the smallest items of expenditure, including light, for the obvious reason that it is only by these small economies that large aggregate savings can be effected." This is very commendable, but, on the other hand, the Sequoia, the President's yacht (Government owned) was used to bear a party down the river over the week-end to study economy. We are not criticizing the administration for this, but under the above logic maybe the party could have fished from the White House bathtub and saved the expense of the overnight ride.—Martha, in the National Rural Letter Carrier.

TIME PASSES.

THE country is going to the dogs, I know, and every one appears to be broke and low, but what does it matter? The people are clamoring for succor and aid, out of food, clothes and much afraid, but what does it matter? Uncertainty, doubt and fear fill the air; poverty, disease and death reign everywhere, but what does it matter? Congress without an idea in its head, like a flock of sheep, has to be led, but what does it matter? The whole world moves without any seeming plan, and there is no hope for any poor man, but what does it matter? The rich become richer and the poor get poorer, and this one fact in life is sure, but what does it matter? My country, 'tis of thee, sweet land of liberty, gone is the land of the brave and the free, but what does it matter? For such crises as these in life come and go, and for centuries the world has known want and woe, so what does it matter?—Frances P. Howard, Treasury, and former Speaker, Little Congress.

J. S. Bohannan(*), lawyer, specializing in packers and stockyards litigations, Agriculture, modestly claims that he is the only real farmer in the Department of Agriculture. Most of the employes of this great institution work in a farm atmosphere each official day and deal with farm problems generally, but Bohannan enjoys the added distinction of being a real farmer-after-sundown. After his official day is concluded he motors to a 200-acre farm in Charles County, Md. There he overlooks the peaceful meadows and, ere he enjoys the sleep of the just, he fraternizes with fellow farmers. His poise and serene manner argues well for the advantages of rural life as against life in a city, with its hustle, bustle and noise-infested nights.

THE MEANING OF "AMERICA."

WHO knows the origin of the word "America?" Very few Americans do. When most of us are challenged to answer that question, we reply: "America, of course, as every school child knows, was named after the great Italian cartographer, Amerigo Vespucci." That's so; but where did Vespucci get his Christian name? What was the origin of his name Amerigo?

The name has been traced back and gives a real inspiration to our American life because the word Amerigo was originally, in Gothic, "Amalrico." As the Gothic invasion went over the Alps and into Italy the harshness of the Gothic language was softened by the patois of the vowel-loving Italian and "Amalric" became "Amerigo" and then became America.

Now what does "Amalric" mean? Amalric was composed of two words, "Amal" plus "ric." "Amal" meant work and "ric" to conquer: All-conquering work! That is what America means, and can you imagine a more inspiring name for any country than that? "The work that conquers: All-conquering work?"

There is nothing that America needs more today than that her people get back to work.—From the Kalends, house organ of the Waverly Press.

Marriage Notice Posted by Prince

Fontainebleau, France, June 5 (A. P.).—When Prince Asturias marries his Cuban fiancee, Senorita Edelmira Sanpedro, in Lausanne, he will, in effect, renounce his claims to the Spanish throne.

Official notice of "promising of marriage" was posted in the city hall, at Lausanne today, and court circles here declared that although the prince has not formally renounced his claims, his marriage to the Cuban girl would amount to the same thing.

Nor will his father, former King Alfonso, attend the wedding ceremonies. The king is visiting in Venice, but his spokesman here said, "the king is not happy about the marriage and will not go to the wedding." It was understood, however, that the prince's mother, Queen Victoria, will attend.

Theodore Achilles Weds Havana Girl

Miami, Fla., June 5 (A.P.).—Theodore Carter Achilles, of the State Department at Washington, and his bride, the former Miss Marian Field, of Havana, were honeymooning here today after their marriage at the First Presbyterian Church. They will go to Washington later this week to make their home.

The bride, daughter of William P. Field, of Havana, was given in marriage by her father. Her sister, Miss Katherine Field, accompanied her. Paul Achilles, of New York, brother of the bridegroom, was best man.

Mrs. Achilles is a graduate of Smith College. Her family is prominent in the American colony in Havana. Achilles, graduate of Stanford and Yale, formerly was American vice consul at Havana.

Stocks Resume Advances On Trade Encouragement

Rails, Mines and Alcohol Groups Lead; Sales, 5,010,296 Shares.

New York, June 5 (A.P.).—Stocks swung back into the advance today after some uncertainty as to whether Saturday's setback had signalled the beginning of a reaction that really meant business.

Apparently impressed by the resistance offered during early irregularity, the market resumed its rise during the afternoon under leadership of rail, gold mining and alcohol groups, although a net gain of 1.7 in the closing composite price did not fully cancel last week-end's loss.

Sales totaled 5,010,296 shares.

Although encouraged by their own stubborn refusal to halt for more than brief periods the improvement which began six weeks or so ago, stocks were no doubt helped by the day's grist of business news. Rails found some push, apparently, in House passage of the administration's carrier bill, as well as in the larger loadings of some individual roads, including Santa Fe and Chesapeake & Ohio. Chemical stocks boiled upward under inspiration of a brisk advance by Allied. Packing Co. shares looked stronger. Communications followed a sharp run-up by Western Union which listened to Wall Street rumors of a pending merger with Postal Telegraph.

At the close, Western Union was up 9¾; Homestake, Allied Chemical and Armour of Illinois Preferred 6, Postal Preferred more than 7. National Distilleries and American Sugar 4, and Dome Mines, Santa Fe, United Fruit, United Aircraft, American Telephone, Harvester, American Tobacco "B," Du Pont, Westinghouse, Louisville & Nashville and Delaware & Hudson 2 to 3. U. S. Steel's best was about a point under its recent high, though the preferred shares advanced 2.

May results for mercantile business indicate a satisfactory showing. Woolworth Co.'s sales last month was 9.5 per cent under a year ago, while Montgomery Ward's increase of 6.5 per cent over 1932 was its first gain since June, 1930. Further light on the progress of retail distribution is offered by the figures of less-than-carload-lot movement of freight during May which showed steady week-to-week improvement over last year. A rise in steel operations to 47 per cent of capacity, as reported by a trade review, was well received though it led to increased conjecture as to how far the industry could go without experiencing seasonal correction. Current activity probably represents a profit margin for most producers, an experience many have not enjoyed for the past couple of years.

BONDS KEEP UP RISE TO NEW HIGH LEVELS

New York, June 5 (A.P.).—The bond market turned quiet and slightly irregular today, although the strength of various specialties aided in maintaining the recent upward trend.

The average for 60 domestic corporate loans edged up one-tenth of a point, to 77.7, another new high mark for the year. Sales totaled $13,922,000, par value, against $20,858,000 last Friday.

Securities Act Puts Fear Into Wall Street Brokers

New York, June 5 (A.P.).—Confused by the sweeping changes wrought by the new securities act, Wall street's brokerage and investment banking institutions are operating with extreme caution despite a heavy public demand for stocks and bonds.

Pending the establishment of precedents and the compilation of a complete book of rules, financial houses are taking no chances with a measure which deals out stiff penalties for errors in the disclosure of "material" investment facts.

As a result, many advisory services of security houses have adopted a "watchful waiting" policy and brokers' letters are extremely cautious in suggesting the purchase of specific securities.

WHEAT VALUES SO ON CROP'S DAMAG

Winter Yield Loss Placed $10,000,000; Other Grains Up.

Chicago, June 5 (A.P.).—Sizzli temperatures inflicting millions dollars' damage to winter wheat Kansas, Nebraska and Oklaho turned all grain prices sharply u ward late today.

Contributing to the rise of valu was the first complaint from spri wheat territory; South Dakota poin sending word that immediate rain were needed to prevent serious losse With mercury as high as 110 in Kan sas, and forecasts pointing to no re lief, widespread premature ripening of winter wheat was reported, and harvest operations were expected to become general much earlier than had been looked for.

Wheat closed strong, 1 to 1¼ above Saturday's finish; corn, ½ to ⅞ advance; oats, ½ to ⅝ up, and provisions varying from 15 cents decline to 15 cents gain.

Estimate of Loss.

One estimate placed winter wheat damage already at upward of $10,000,000 in Kansas, Nebraska and Oklahoma. Some reports from Kansas said a continuance of the terrific heat prevailing would mean worse disaster, as it would put the final touch on a crop that had already suffered to an extent rarely equaled.

Arrangements to finance $50,000,000 sales of United States wheat and cotton to China helped give an upward impulse to the wheat market and were said to be the forerunners of additional similar measures.

Corn and oats rallied with wheat despite favorable planting conditions for corn, and notwithstanding big receipts of corn here.

Provisions averaged lower, influenced by large arrivals of hogs.

COTTON PRICES RISE AS SECURITIES GAIN

July Sells at 9.25 With the General Market Up 20 to 25 Points.

New York, June 5 (A.P.).—Cotton prices rushed up in the last hour, closing more than $1 a bale higher. The market gave ground after an initial advance, then came fast near the close in sympathy with a renewal of bullish operations in stocks.

July contracts, after selling off from 9.08 to 8.87 during the early trading, about 55 points from last week's peak, advanced to 9.25 in the late trading. The general market closed firm at net advances of 20 to 25 points.

Initial prices were 5 to 8 points higher in response to news that the Reconstruction Finance Corporation had arranged for a loan of $50,000,000 to China for the purpose of financing purchases of American cotton and wheat.

Acreage Status Ignored.

Failure of the Washington conference on acreage to reach a decision had no marked effect.

December sold from 9.50 to 9.28, but the break of about 52 to 56 points from the peak of last week's advance seemed sufficient to bring in an increased demand, and the market rose sharply in the later trading.

December advanced to 9.66, or 25 points net higher and about 38 points above the low level of the morning, and closed at 9.64. Closing prices generally were within a point or two of the best for the day.

According to the New York Cotton Exchange Service, world's consumption of cotton of all growths during April totaled 2,047,000 bales, against 1,932,000 last year, and for the first nine months of the season 18,904,000 against 17,603,000 last year.

Owing to the Whitsuntide holidays, the Liverpool market was closed and it was also a holiday in the Continental, Bombay and Alexandria markets. Exports today, 18,555, making 7,299,450 so far this season. Port receipts, 9,311. U. S. port stocks, 3,860,937.

WOODS ARMY FILLS IN PRINCE GEORGES

Last Call Is Sounded Today for Camp; Two Walk 12 Miles to Enlist.

With the last call being sounded today for recruits from Prince Georges County for the reforestation army a total of 63 applications was reported filled out at the Hyattsville office.

Residents are so anxious to join the group, it was reported by the County Welfare Board in charge of the recruiting, that the quota has been raised from 75 to 100 men. In one instance two men walked 12 miles to file application.

The regular Army recruiting station at 820 Tenth street northwest, assigned to give the men physical examinations, will make its last examinations today at 2 p. m. The Hyattsville office will receive the last applications at 11 a. m.

In order to file an application today, it was pointed out, it will be necessary for the applicant to come prepared to go directly to camp. He must also carry a lunch with him and be prepared to pay his own transportation to the Tenth street office.

The opportunity to join the reforestation army has been extended to all Prince Georges County men between the ages of 18 and 25, who are in need, regardless of whether they are from families now receiving aid, as was first stated.

All clothing, blankets and other necessary equipment is furnished by the Government. Each man is asked to bring an extra suit for excursions away from the camp. All extra equipment which each man thinks he will need for a six months' encampment must be brought to the recruiting station, from which the details embark en masse. All recruits are warned to "travel light."

MARYLAND R.O.T.C. GRADUATES PLACED

Will Be Assigned to Twelfth Infantry Instead of Reserve Units.

By a special presidential order, graduates of the University of Maryland Reserve Officers Training Corps will be assigned to the Twelfth Infantry instead of to a reserve corps unit, it was announced yesterday at the university.

The action, which is believed to be the first of its kind since the formation of the reserve corps shortly after the World War, will connect 16 Washington youths with a regular Army unit as auxiliary officers. They will be ordered to their first encampment at Fort Washington, June 17. The camp will continue through June 30.

The policy in the past has been to form special skeleton units with the R. O. T. C. graduates. In case of necessity these skeleton units will be filled in with recruits. In the case of the University of Maryland, the Twelfth Infantry would be expanded in case of war with the Maryland students as officers.

Of the 23 R. O. T. C. graduates to be included in this policy, the Washington, Chevy Chase, and Takoma Park officers include Howard M. Biggs, 6225 Thirty-second place northwest; John T. Roosevelt Repeal Statement Sought

(Associated Press.)

A House resolution calling on President Roosevelt to request States to give "early consideration" to the prohibition repeal amendment was introduced yesterday in the House by Representative Darden, of Norfolk, Va.

"The repeal of the eighteenth amendment," the resolution said, "would permit the levying of new taxes which would furnish more revenue than is needed for the recovery program."

Some Democratic leaders are expecting Mr. Roosevelt to issue an appeal shortly to States to pass on the amendment.

Court Holds Man In Auto Drowning

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., June 5.—Joseph Callahan, 26, who, police say, drove the automobile Sunday that crashed through the warning barriers and plunged through the open draw of Spa Creek Bridge, from Annapolis to Eastport, causing the drowning of Frank Crosby, 27, of Eastport, was held under $500 bail for grand jury action following a coroner's investigation conducted by Police Justice Louis M. Hopkins, of Annapolis.

Damon Dayton, 26, was held under $100 security as a material witness. Coroner Hopkins gave a certificate of accidental drowning. The hearing disclosed that the men had been drinking, and that Callahan was driving without a license.

State Patrolman James O'Shockley pressed charges in this connection. Callahan was fined $11.45 on the nonlicense charge. The other charges were withdrawn.

Sale of Fireworks Will Be Unlimited

Merchants in Arlington County again this year will be permitted to sell fireworks with no limits as to size or quantity, County Manager Roy S. Braden announced yesterday. While the question came before the county board at its meeting last Saturday, no effort was made to curb the sale or use by citizens.

While the sale of fireworks was permitted without restrictions last year, the records show there were no accidents.

The fact that there is no ordinance to prohibit the sale or explosion of fireworks, Sheriff Howard B. Fields with his force of county police, as in the past years, will pay particular attention to all highways to see that no fireworks are thrown at or into automobiles.

Boulder Dam Rise Will Start Today

Boulder City, Nev., June 5 (A.P.). The world's greatest dam will start to rise tomorrow.

Without ceremony the pouring of concrete into the river bed foundation for Boulder Dam from which the mighty Colorado River was diverted last year, will commence at 11 a. m.

For more than two years this pouring—seven million tons in all—will continue. Thus will rise a vast concrete structure, 730 feet from the foundation rock, and sufficiently high to raise the height of the Colorado 582 feet to create the greatest artificial lake man so far has set out to build.

NATS POUND GROVE HARD, BUT LOSE TO A'S, 7-4

This MORNING with SHIRLEY L. POVICH

Shibe Park, Philadelphia, June 5.

A BIG fellow sweating great beads of perspiration doing all the menial tasks of the pregame practice of the Athletics this afternoon. No loose ball was too far for him to chase, no fungo hit was too distant to catch. He wound up with three laps around the park and went in to dress.

He didn't dress in the A's locker room, where he had been a valued member of Connie Mack's baseball fraternity for seven years. He slunk off by himself to gather up his street clothes in the tool house under the stands.

None of his club mates had spoken a word to him on the field. And he had spoken to none. He was barred from the A's dressing room. Some of the players early this morning had taken his home uniform from its accustomed locker and deposited it in the tool house. He was unwelcome around the bunch.

He was George Earnshaw.

Earnshaw's Nap Last Straw.

Connie Mack has given Earnshaw 10 days to repent. And a $500 fine for emphasis. For ten days he is ostracized. It's a long story that reached its climax during the last week-end in New York.

You have heard of George Earnshaw's pitching feats in the American League, but perhaps you have not heard of his sleeping feat in the same league. It may suffice to say that Earnshaw slept through a 21-run cannonading by the Yankees and Athletics in last Saturday's game at New York.

Earnshaw heard not. He was nodding in the bull pen, tightly embraced in the arms of Morpheus when the Athletics hammered the New York pitching for 11 runs in the third inning on Saturday. And he was still dozing when the Yankees came back two innings later to pulverize Mr. Mack's pitchers for 10 runs at a time when Mr. Mack was looking frantically around for a relief pitcher with a chance of quieting the Yankee ruckus.

He looked in the direction of Earnshaw and found that worthy still catching up on some of the sleep he lost in his meanderings the night before. To Mack in that moment of need, Earnshaw was about as useful as water in the gas tank.

Mack Quietly Metes Punishment.

Mr. Mack did not hit the ceiling. He quietly announced that Mr. Earnshaw was being sent home pronto, that he was suspended for 10 days and was fined $500 and the penalty would be steeper if he did not round into condition within the prescribed time.

And the rest of his athletes were with Mr. Mack to a man. Earnshaw had betrayed a kindly and trustful manager of 71. The loss of his services while the A's were taking four straight beatings from the Yankees may have been a death blow to their pennant hopes. On the train back to Philly yesterday there was much muttering and many invectives in the direction of the big right-hander and social registerite, who has written some of the most glorious pages into the history of Mack's modern-day ball clubs.

So there was small wonder when they moved his clothes from the dressing room today.

It was not Earnshaw's first departure from the straight and narrow. Earlier in the season he had been sent home from Detroit and told to "get into condition." Out on the Coast during the off season he had gone out of his province to venture that the Yankees would win the pennant. He balked strenuously at a pay cut, but he came East and made his peace with Mack.

Long Talk With Pitcher Unavailing.

Early last week Mack knew that something was wrong again. He visited Earnshaw's room and held a long session with the big pitcher, eliciting his promise to pay attention to his work. And last Friday he was in no condition to pitch. On Saturday he was still catching up with his sleep. It was what they call the last straw.

But Earnshaw was out there working today. Penance was already setting in. The sweat rolled off him in great globules. No rookie trying to break in ever worked more diligently. None spoke to him and he spoke to none. And when hitting practice started he was begone into his toolhouse.

Feather Aces In Portner's Feature

Sarron, Farr Promise Red-Hot Battle Tonight.

Knowles, De Angelo in Semifinal as Season Ends.

By DAVE HERMAN.

PORTNER'S Arena will write finis to its 1933 boxing season tonight, with Petey Sarron, of Birmingham, and Johnny Farr, of Cleveland, both featherweights, clashing in the crowning event of the program.

Eight rounds will be the distance, provided the veteran Farr doesn't tag Sarron with his vaunted left hook, and Sarron doesn't clip Farr with his looping left-hand smash. Here are two types of blows that the rival gladiators specialize in, and an early finish would not be surprising.

Sarron's prowess is well known by the fistic faithful. They have seen him stop Benny Schwartz and Frankie De Angelo, each in the seventh round, and crush Niki Gelb, Hungarian champion, in an eight-rounder. In three consecutive fights he did not yield a single round. They have watched him hold Tommy Paul, former N. B. A. featherweight champion, to two stirring draw decisions, and they have heard about his record fifteen-second first-round knockout over Johnny Datto, and his great stand against Fidel La Barbe.

Sarron Champion of South.

A former member of the American Olympic Team, Sarron has won championships in Australia and New Zealand. He is the recognized Dixie featherweight title holder and his record shows but two defeats against him and something like 200 victories for him.

Farr is an Italian. His real name is Johnny Farinacci. He is the smallest featherweight in the game, standing about 5 feet 1. Active as a professional since 1923, Farr has beaten none other than the welterweight champion, Jimmy McLarnin; also Benny Bass, former title holder; Billy Wallace, Eddie Shea, Johnny Datto, Pete Sarmiento, Pete Nebo and a host of other topnotchers. He lost three times to Tony Canzoneri and recently put up a stiff battle against Kid Chocolate, world's featherweight champion.

Farr arrived yesterday with his manager, Eddie Meade. This afternoon at 2 o'clock he and Sarron will weigh in at Riggs. Both are expected to scale in at 126.

Tonight's match means much to Sarron. If he wins he will move up a couple of notches on the fistic ladder and put himself in a position to challenge Chocolate and Miller for championship honors.

De Angelo-Knowles in Semifinal.

Frankie De Angelo, veteran Italian featherweight, returns to his ring wars in a six-round semifinal match against Chief Perry Knowles, Seminole importation from Florida. De Angelo is said to be an improved fighter. Knowles is remembered for his slashing victory over Joe Raspi in Baltimore and his draw at Portner's with Doug Swetnam.

In another six, Bob Lowry, Washington lightweight, faces Al Parka, rugged Baltimore fighter. Wild Bill Howell, of the Blue Ridge Mountains of Virginia, engages Chuck Henderson, of Washington, in a four-rounder. Bill Bullock, of North Carolina, opens in a four against Al Cortez, Filipino, at 8:30 p. m.

Because of the grave illness of his sister in Missouri, Charlie Short, popular referee from Baltimore, will be unable to take his accustomed place in the ring tonight. His substitute will be Heinie Miller, well known District referee.

BOXING BITS' SELECTIONS—Sarron to beat Farr, De Angelo to beat Knowles, Lowry to beat Parka, Henderson to beat Howell and Cortez to beat Bullock.

Cronin Hits .446 at Home To Boost Average to .320

Failed to Deliver on Only 24 Times With Men on Bases.

By FRANK H. YOUNG.

"THEY laughed at him when he sat down to play," according to the mail order house's advertisement about the fellow who secretly took a few of their lessons and surprised his friends by playing like a Paderewski. And so it was in the case of Joe Cronin, fighting young manager and shortstop of the Nationals, earlier in the season.

They said Joe's managerial duties would worry him and ruin a perfectly good shortstop and they said "I told you so" when he had trouble getting his bat functioning properly, his failure being doubly apparent because he happened to be batting in the No. 4 clean-up position.

As far as can be learned Cronin has not been taking any correspondence course on the fine art of hitting, but he has been playing some mighty sweet tunes with his bat, pounding the ball both hard and timely. During the last home stay of the Nats, he was nothing else but bad news to opposing pitchers, batting at a faster pace than any other player in the league.

All Joe has to show for his efforts since the Cleveland team showed up here on May 16 is a record of 33 hits in 74 times at bat, for a .446 average. Among these blows were one homer, three triples and six doubles, while he scored ten runs himself and drove 23 others over the plate. And nobody is laughing at Joe now.

With men on bases, Cronin has

reminded of Babe Ruth, Lou Gehrig and Jimmy Foxx combined, not with respect to home-run ability, but as regards coming through with the run-making blows. Fifty-one times over this stretch, he went to the tee with mates on the bases and he hit on 23 of these occasions and was walked, sometimes intentionally, on four. He failed to deliver but 24 times. He started five rallies and came through with hits which prolonged many others. In other words, he has been "Johnny on the Spot"

TIGER RALLY IN 9TH NIPS INDIANS

Detroit Wins by 8-7; Gehringer Is Star With Bat.

CLEVELAND, June 5 (A.P.).—The Detroit Tigers pulled a close game with the Cleveland Indians out of the fire in the ninth inning today and won, 8 to 7.

Vic Frazier, making his first start on the mound with his Detroit mates, failed to hold fast to an early lead the Tigers' bats had earned in the first five innings off Wes Ferrell, and was replaced by Vic Sorrell, who received credit for the victory. Sarge Connally, who succeeded Ferrell, was the loser.

Gehringer, whose day's work included hitting two doubles, blasting out a home run in the seventh and driving in four runs, started Detroit's winning onslaught in the ninth with a single, scoring White, who had walked, and sending Owen, who also had walked, to third. Owen scored the final run after Vosmik caught a line drive by Stone.

Pound Three Hurlers for 23 Hits, Wyatt Winning Start.

ST. LOUIS, June 5 (A.P.).—For the third consecutive game, the Chicago White Sox hit almost at will today, gathering 23 hits off three St. Louis Brown pitchers, and won, 14 to 7. Every White Sox got at least two hits.

Wyatt, making his first start for Chicago since he was received from Detroit in a trade, allowed the Browns ten hits, but kept them fairly well scattered except in the ninth when the locals made three runs.

Ciuci Shoots 70 In Open Practice

Chicago, June 5 (A.P.).—Henry Ciuci, Flushing, Long Island, professional, went over the North Shore Country Club layout, where the national open golf championship tournament will be decided this week-end, shot 37-33—70, two under par, for the best of today's sample rounds.

Ciuci played from the back tees, and his 33 on the home nine was the best performance of the last ten days. Billy Burke scored a par 72, while Denny Shute, Johnny Goodman, Johnny Farrell, Phil Perkins, Leo Diegel and Don Armstrong, the latter an amateur from Aurora, Ill., carded 73's.

Four others, Joe Turnesa, of Elmsford, N. Y., Herman Barron, Portchester, N. Y.; Paul Runyan, White Plains, N. Y., and Al Espinosa, of Akron, Ohio, toured the course in 74 strokes. Craig Wood, of Deal, N. J., and Frank Walsh, of Chicago, had 75's, and Cyril Walker, of New York, and George Smith, of Chicago, required one more stroke.

The defending titleholder Gene Sarazen, played nine holes in a very experimental manner and got a 38, while George Von Elm, business man golfer from California, went eight holes, declined to reveal his total and spent several hours on the practice course.

Dempsey Out Of 'Red' on Big Bout

$100,000 on Hand, Another $50,000 in Reservations.

60,000 Gathering Is Indicated; German Still Favorite.

By EDWARD J. NEIL.

NEW YORK, June 5 (A.P.).—Jack Dempsey's splurge into the metropolitan fight promotion field with the 15-round battle between Max Baer and Max Schmeling this Thursday at the Yankee Stadium, appeared today to be pointed toward financial success.

"Gosh, it's awful," the old champion gasped, wiping the perspiration from his face as he tried to find preferred places for late comers in ringside pews entirely sold out. "The first ten rows should be made of rubber. I'm making enemies by the minutes."

As his two gladiators took their ease in training camps, the major grind or physical preparation complete, customers filed steadily past Dempsey's ticket windows.

Receipts to Total Around $300,000.

Dempsey said that he already had $100,000 in cash, with another $50,000 in reservations. Apparently 60,000 will see the tussle with gate receipts around $300,000. Dempsey's top ticket price is $10, as compared with $25 for the best ringside seats at the Sharkey-Schmeling match, which drew $450,000 last June.

James H. Scarr, head of the New York Weather Bureau, said Thursday "probably would be fair."

With the experts in full blast, jammed with predictions, more favor appeared for Baer's chances of whipping the lean, dark German youth who won and lost the heavyweight championship in two fights with Jack Sharkey. Predictions lean generally to Schmeling, with the odds 2 to 1 in his favor.

Baer, with inches in height and reach and 20 pounds of weight in his favor at 210 pounds, in the biggest, strongest, roughest young man Schmeling ever has been called upon to face. A distinct advantage is given Schmeling through his own great punching power and the ease with which Baer has been hit in training bouts, Baer, a walloper with either hand, disdains defense.

Baer Not Worried About Defense.

"Why worry about something that doesn't matter?" Baer has been asking the critics who frowned on his careless defense in training at Atlantic City.

The New York Yankees have shifted a game scheduled in the stadium with the Boston Red Sox Wednesday, and will play it as part of a doubleheader tomorrow, thus giving Dempsey an extra day to set up the ring and arrange seats in the big ball park.

He plans to supervise that job himself tomorrow night.

The bout, scheduled to start about 8:30 (E. S. T.), will not be broadcast.

Texas Girl, Georgian Tie for Golf Medal

Albany, Ga., June 5 (A.P.).—Miss Aniela Gorcxyca, of Fort Worth, Texas State champion, shot her way into a tie for the qualifying round medal honors in the Southern women's golf tournament today for the second consecutive year.

Her 84 brought her a deadlock with Miss Margaret Maddox, Georgia title holder, in the 18-hole test over the sporty, sun-baked Radium Springs layout. They will play off the tie later in the week.

Cochet Bows In Final to Crawford

Decisively Beaten for French Title; Miss Scriven Wins.

AUTEUIL, France, June 5 (A.P.).—French domination of their own tennis championships was ended today as Henri Cochet went down to a crushing defeat before Jack Crawford, Australian titleholder, 8—6, 6—1, 6—3.

It was the first time an outsider had won the prized hard court title since the event was thrown open to all comers in 1925 and left France with a share in only one of the five championship titles, the women's doubles.

The defeat of Cochet, last of the "three musketeers" who have ruled the courts of the world since 1927, further decreased the prospects for a successful defense by France of the Davis Cup next month.

Favorite to Meet U. S. Team.

The impressive play of Crawford made Australia a favorite to win the European zone Davis Cup competition and face the United States in the intersone final. There were even those who saw a possible Australian victory over Ellsworth Vines, jr., and his mates.

Mme. Rene Mathieu, who lost in the finals of the women's singles today to the tournament sensation, Margaret Scriven, twelfth ranking English player, was the only French player to score in the tournament. She won the women's doubles with the American, Elizabeth Ryan, but lost to Miss Scriven by the scores of 6—2, 4—6, 6—4 in the singles.

Crawford and Miss Scriven won the

Stewart Draws Mahaffey as Foe At Philly Today

Special to The Washington Post.

PHILADELPHIA, June 5.—Walter Stewart has been nominated by Manager Joe Cronin of the Nats to face the Athletics in the second game of the series tomorrow. Manager Mack has Roy Mahaffey dusted off and ready to pitch for the A's.

Three times Lefty Grove has faced the Nats this season. And three times he has beaten them. But it was strange to see Grove out there on the mound at 3:30 o'clock. He had not started a game since last May 6 and has been strictly a 5:15 relief pitcher for the last month.

The Athletics are proving no help to the Nats in their effort to overhaul the Yankees. Although starting Grove three times against the Nats, Manager Mack has never started him against the Yankees. It would look like a conspiracy in any other business.

The A's were credited with three hits against Bobby Burke in the fourth, but all of them were tinctured with a heavy coating of essence of rabbit's feet. Bishop bounced a ball to Myer that refused to descend till after he crossed first base; Cramer got a hit when Bishop obscured Myer's view of the ball, and Coleman was credited with a hit when he stopped one off the rubber plate that did not come down to earth until he was a good 10 feet past the first sack

"Lefty" Wins Fifth Straight and Gets Circuit Clout.

Coleman Is Big Star, Driving in Four Mack Runs.

By SHIRLEY L. POVICH
(Sports Editor of The Post).

SHIBE PARK, Philadelphia, Pa., June 5.—It is correct to state that Lefty Grove, pride of the Athletics pitching staff, was soundly thumped this afternoon by the Nats, who lambasted his southpaw slants for eleven base hits including a home run, a triple and two doubles, but at this point, it would be unwise to assume too much.

Grove was still unbowed at the finish and nursing his fifth straight victory of the season as the first game of the Nats' Northern invasion saw them pull up on the south end of a 7-4 score.

It seems that the Athletics were doing a bit of batting on their own account, especially against Al Crowder, who was shelled from the box in the fourth inning after surviving a five-run barrage by the skin of his molars in the third.

Coleman A's Hitting Hero.

The Athletics massaged Crowder's pitching for five hits in the third inning with Big Ed Coleman in the role of chief masseur. He spanked a double off the left center field fence two feet shy of a home run to bring three of his pals romping home and before he had concluded his day's activities he had driven in four runs for his employer, Mr. Mack.

Lefty Grove himself launched the A's productive rally against Crowder in the third inning with a clean single to right and then in the fourth, of all things, he hit a home run over the score board in right center. Thus it came to pass that Manager Cronin decided to replace Crowder with the southpaw. Bob Burke, in an effort to stop the hitting of Grove, at least.

At the conclusion of the fourth inning, the Nats were facing the dubious task of wiping out a 7-1 lead that Grove and his pals had compiled for Grove. Playing all the percentages, Cronin bolstered his line-up with right handed hitting, replacing Joe Kuhel with Dave Harris at first base, and substituting Bob Boken for Buddy Myer at second.

Nats Get Trio of Runs Back.

While Burke and Bill McAfee were holding the A's in check in the last four innings, the Nats got three of the runs back, mainly as the result of Fred Schulte's home run wallop

MR. SPONGE SPRINTS TO VICTORY AT WASHINGTON PARK

Choice Beats Sweeprush 2 Lengths

Latter Loses Chance by Swerving Toward Rail in Stretch.

Pilate Wins Charity Feature Race at Belmont Park.

WASHINGTON PARK, Ill., June 5 (A.P.).—C. L. King's Mr. Sponge, which raced successfully at Miami last winter, returned to good form today at Washington Park to win the Arcturus Star Purse at 7 furlongs.

Mr. Sponge, formerly owned by Joseph E. Widener, of Philadelphia, was given a capable ride by Jockey E. Steffen and scored by two lengths over Sweeprush. Sweeprush made a bid in the stretch, but swerved in toward the rail and lost whatever chance he had of catching Mr. Sponge. Sazerac finished third.

The victor was the favorite and returned $3.68 in the $2 mutuels. The time, over a slow track, was 1:25 3-4.

Belmont Park Race Track, New York, June 5 (A.P.).—Another week of sport began today at the beautiful course of the Westchester Racing Association with a charity program for the relief of unemployed newspapermen. Originally, no racing was scheduled for today, but an attractive card was arranged for a worthy cause and a crowd of about 3,500 enjoyed the various events and ideal weather.

The Hotel Biltmore Handicap, a 6-furlong dash over the main course, drew five capable members of the handicap division to the post. The $485 winner's share of the purse and a cup donated by the Hotel Biltmore, went to former Jockey Andy Schuttinger, whose Pilate drove home a length clear of J. W. Y. Martin's mare, Con Amore. Mrs. E. Ambrose Clark's Neverfade was three lengths farther back in the show position.

Parry, the favorite, lacked speed and was outrun throughout. Halcyon was left at the post. Pilate, held at 7 to 2, made the good time of 1:11 4-5 over a dried out, fast track.

Tommy Malley gave Pilate a perfect ride. He restrained his mount in third place, while Con Amore and Neverfade vied desperately for the early lead. Coming around the leaders turning into the stretch, Pilate gradually wore down Con Amore but the latter forced the winner to give his best. Neverfade beat Parry by a half length.

AT THE POST

with Bill Bennings

WASHINGTON PARK, JUNE 5.

DEAR AL:

Although the track was drying out fast as the program ended there is a threat of rain tonight and I have divided my time between the fast and the mud books. They substituted a couple of races on me today but, even so, things were not a total loss. The Chicago Business Men's Association, which operates Hawthorne, announced today that the Gold Cup classic, the annual feature at that track, will be at $25,000 added this year. The purse will be divided so that the first five horses will figure in the money distribution, with $15,000 to the winner. The 30-day meeting opens July 31. If you must wager tomorrow, get down on these.

BILL.

FIRST RACE—ESSIE WESSIE showed a neat effort here and off that figures to take care of these. HERO OLGA was shipped here from Maryland. May be better than rated in the East. KENTUCKY HELEN for the show.

SECOND RACE—LA SALLE will appreciate the off-track and may come to life to take this sprint. Gets in with only a steadying impost and has worked well, I'm informed. LAMP BLACK is the one to beat. RUSTY took a licking the last time and may be in the money tomorrow.

THIRD RACE—I believe I've found the race for DROMBO. My old friend likes the slower going and stands a royal chance of getting home in front of this field. BOY CRAZY and SKY HAVEN to take care of the others.

FOURTH RACE—MISS MELODY did everything I asked of her the last time out and I see no reason why she can't repeat here. Looks like the improved GAY WORLD will do the pressing. SOBIEHA is a money possibility.

FIFTH RACE—Seems useless to try to beat MISS PATIENCE among these 2-year-olds. This filly has been there or thereabouts at every asking and gives away little weight tomorrow. PRINCE POMPEY won a heat last week and looks second best. WEAVER BIRD to show.

SIXTH RACE—SOEUR BLANCHE'S chances hinge on how slow the track is at post time. She showed some fine speed in the mud at Pimlico and workouts indicate that she shipped well. CHAT EAGLE and SERGEANT HILL for the other money places.

SEVENTH RACE—UNENCUMBERED reached the peak at Bowie and unless they deem it necessary to give this one a conditioner, I look for a quick set of brackets. BRASS MONKEY and UNCOMMON GOLD to take care of the rest.

EIGHTH RACE—GAILLARDIA gets the Bennings call in the final. LADY DEAN and HARAMZADA for the place battle.

"Unknown" Due to Capture '33 Open, Says Cruickshank

"It's Been a Long Time Since a Longshot Came Through, If Ever, and Might Help Show," He Declares.

CHICAGO, June 5 (A.P.).—Wee Bobby Cruickshank carefully scanned the brilliant national open golf championship field for 1933, reflected for a minute and then picked his man.

It was the "unknown stranger."

"It's just the time and the spot for some unknown this year in the open," he mused. "Yes, I know Sarazen will be there.. So will Hagen, Mac Smith, Von Elm and a great field, but I've got a hunch that somebody we don't know is going to pop right in with a 72-hole total around 290 and take it all, and maybe, I'd be a good thing for the show.

"I don't know how long it's been since a real long shot won the open, if ever. Take the last ten and run down the line, you'll find Bobby Jones, Cyril Walker, Willie MacFarlane, Jones again, Tommy Armour, Johnny Farrell, Jones two years in a row, Billy Burke and Gene Sarazen. It's a cinch to be a break in the line of big shots somewhere. It happens in other sports frequently, and golf's a human game."

"Overlooking your unknown, who would you pick among the favorites?" the little Scot was asked.

"My choice there is Walter Hagen. He's on his game and probably more determined to win this year than ever before. After that, I'll pick Mac Smith, George Von Elm, Denny Shute and Craig Wood in about that order."

"How about Sarazen?"

Bobby shook his head.

"I don't think Gene's on his game right now, of course, you can't figure him out. He's liable to find the range any day. He's a golfer, who seems to get what he goes after no matter how he has been shooting. With a burning ambition to win the opens here and in England again, he might surprise most of us with an easy victory or else be far out."

Cruickshank, who has had the big title within his grasp twice only to lore it, said little about his game except that he was playing well and thought he had an outside chance. It was Bobby who tied Bobby Jones after 72 holes at Inwood 10 years ago only to lose by two shots in the playoff. At Fresh Meadow last year, Bobby tore in with a rousing 69-68 finish to come from nowhere, tie Phil Perkins and then watch Sarazen come home with his famous 66 to take it all.

TOMMY PAUL BEATEN.

Pittsburgh, Pa., June 5 (U.P.).—Jackie Wilson, of Pittsburgh, tonight scored an upset victory over Tommy Paul, of Buffalo, when he stopped the former National Boxing Association's featherweight champion with a technical knockout in the eighth round of their scheduled 10-rounder. Wilson weighed 124½ pounds; Paul, 125½. In the 10-round semifinal, Tony Marino, 114¾, Pittsburgh, took the verdict over Johnny Perrini, 119¾, Buffalo.

KENNEDY BOUT DELAYED.

Newark, N. J., June 5 (A.P.).—The opening of the outdoor boxing season at Dreamland Park, scheduled for tonight, was postponed until tomorrow night when rain threatened. Stanley Poreda, of Jersey City, and Lee Kennedy, West Coast heavyweight, will meet in the feature bout.

GRIFFITHS' HAND BROKEN.

Chicago, June 5 (A.P.).—Tuffy Griffiths, Sioux City, Iowa, heavyweight, was around today with his right hand in a cast because of two broken bones received in the second round of his fight with King Levinsky last Friday night. He will be idle for two months.

Secrecy Shrouds Olympic Parley

Vienna, June 5 (A.P.).—The international Olympic committee, meeting today behind closed doors, discussed the question of rescinding award of the 1936 games to Berlin because of the German ban on Jews, but what action, if any, was taken was not disclosed.

The committee voted as one of its first acts to keep any decisions secret until Wednesday, when a full report of the proceedings is expected to be made public.

Brig. Gen. Charles Sherrill, one of the three American representatives, who said yesterday he would oppose the holding of the Olympiad in any country where there were restrictions on athletes because of race, color or creed, declined to comment on the day's discussion.

The executive committee convened at 9:30 a. m. and continued its deliberations far into the afternoon. Another closed session will be held tomorrow.

Latona Is Eliminated In Maryland Tennis

Special to The Washington Post.

Baltimore, Md., June 5.—Favored tennis players without exception passed their preliminary and first-round obstacles without mishap as the 1933 State championship singles began at the Baltimore Country Club this afternoon.

Of the three Washington netmen entered, only one—Pat Deck—still survives. Deck defeated Sam Cohn by default in the first round, while Henry Sendel, of Washington, lost in the same manner to Casper Mannes.

Anthony Latona was the only Washingtonian to really play, and he went down fighting hard to Henry Barclay, local star, by 6—4, 8—6, in the preliminary round.

Indian Spring Golfwomen Beaten

Columbia Clings to Lead by 11½-3½ Team Triumph.

COLUMBIA Country Club's first team clung to its seven-point lead over Kenwood in the District of Columbia Women's Golf Association intracity matches yesterday by defeating Indian Spring, 11½ to 3½, while Kenwood was beating Washington Golf and Country Club by the same score.

With four more rounds yet to be played, Columbia, captained by Mrs. J. Marvin Haynes, Middle Atlantic champion, is setting the pace with 49 points. Kenwood is second with 42, and Chevy Chase is in third with 41½.

Army-Navy Beaten by Manor.

Mrs. Katherine May, of Kenwood, in winning three points from Mrs. Douglas Tschiffely, turned in the lowest medal score of the day, an 89. She was the only golfer in the field to crack 90. Mrs. J. O. Rhyne, of Congressional, carded a 93; Mrs. Jerome Meyer, Woodmont star, did herself proud in shooting a 94, and helped her team swamp the host women, 14 to 1.

Manor beat Army and Navy, 12 to 3, and Chevy Chase beat Congressional, 10 to 5.

4 D. C. Golfwomen In Maryland Event

Baltimore, Md., June 5.—In sharp contrast to the wealth of out-of-town links women who have sought the Maryland championship in the last five years, only four District of Columbia players are scheduled to qualify tomorrow morning in the annual State title event at the Five Farms course of the Baltimore Country Club.

The Washingtonians and their starting times follow:

10:18, Mrs. J. Marvin Haynes, Columbia, and Miss Gladys Greiner, Baltimore Country Club; 10:26, Mrs. Jerome Meyer, Woodmont, and Mrs. F. P. Lines, Baltimore Country Club; 10:30, Mrs. H. A. Knox, Congressional, and Mrs. G. M. Dowdall, Congressional.

Additional entries filed late today brought the total list of competitors up to 73, which is the largest number since the event started in 1921. Post entries will be accepted so the total, in all probability, will go still higher.

MRS. HILL IS GOLF MEDALIST

90 Card Tops Many Event Qualifiers

Leader Misses Putt on 18th to Ruin Chance for 89.

Three Tie for Second With 92's; Match Play Today.

MRS. MAE HILL, champion in 1931, bounded back into old-time form yesterday at Rock Creek's course, reeled off a 90 and carried off top honors in the qualifying round of the annual women's public links tournament.

Mrs. Hill negotiated A course in 44 and missed her putt on the home green of B side to take a six, and ruin her chances for cracking 90.

Three other women tied for second place with 92's. They were Mrs. Florence Godfrey, who shot a 44 for the first nine, and three putted the eleventh and sixteenth for a 48 on the stretch; Mrs. J. T. Powell, of Manor, who matched Mrs. Godfrey's total for each nine, and Miss Betty Garber, one of the favorites.

Short Approaches Cause Trouble.

Most of the participants reported chief difficulty in getting down their short approaches; others were having plenty of trouble on the greens.

Virginia Williams, long-driving Congressional champion, scored a 96.

First-round matches will commence this morning. One round each day is scheduled. The medalist engages Mrs. M. E. Ferris in her opening match. Mrs. Nick Altrock, wife of the Washington baseball coach-comedian, who registered a 98, opposes Mrs. G. H. Parker.

The pairings and starting times with scores as announced by Manager Harry Graham follow:

Cutting Swath in Sandlot Baseball Circles

St. Jerome's team, of Hyattsville, is in the midst of a successful season and has hung up quite a record in games played to date in Washington as well as in Prince Georges County. It is one of the best teams in its class in its home town.

G. W. Grid Team Loses 10 Players

Happy days may be here again for some people, but not for Jim Pixlee, George Washington University's athletic director and head coach of the football team. Seven boys who played important roles in the Colonials' gridiron success last season are scheduled to graduate, while three others who are returning to school to complete their studies will be ineligible to don the moleskin again.

Johnny Fenlon, the midget half back, heads the list of departing players. Joe Carter, another half back; Otto Kriemelmeyer, full back; Capt. Wayne Chambers and Fred Mulvey, ends; Bob Galloway, reserve end, and Ras Nielson, reserve tackle, and Frank Blackistone, regular center, complete the group.

Blackistone will return to continue his law studies, while Walter Slaird and Wallace Wilson, reserve tackle and guard, respectively, also will return in the autumn, but, of course, will not be eligible.

Wilson, Galloway and Nielson all earned regular berths on the 1931 team, losing out to sophomores last season.

Burning Tree Club Committee Hopeful

Definite progress toward reorganization of the Burning Tree Golf Club, and thus saving it from going under the auctioneer's hammer on June 19, was reported last night following a meeting of members and officials of the club at the Red Cross Building.

Walter R. Tuckerman, chairman of the reorganization committee, announced that the response from members was "most encouraging," and that necessary adjustments to bring the club back to its normal status would be made within the next week.

Burning Tree was advertised a few days ago for sale by foreclosure proceedings growing out of a "friendly" attempt to settle certain claims against the club by the heirs of the late Isaac T. Mann, involving first and second trusts totaling $300,000, on which interest and principal were unpaid.

Judge John Barton Payne, president of the club, and chairman of the American Red Cross, and many men prominent in politics, were present at the meeting.

Eighteen holes will be played.

Representative John G. Cooper, of Ohio, will captain the Republican forces, while Representative William M. Berlin will captain the Democrats. The Democrats are pinning their hopes on Senator Pat Harrison, of Mississippi, to win. He is the main cog in the Democratic golf machine.

Representative O'Connor and Representative McLean are in charge of the prizes.

ABOUT THE SHOWSHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL

THE rebirth of Jesse L. Lasky as a producer of motion pictures who belongs in the first flight—as witness the discrimination, showmanship and substantial fiber revealed by "Zoo in Budapest" and "The Warrior's Husband"—lends importance to any project with which his name may be identified.

Colleen Moore.

It is for this reason that attention is already being directed toward his next production for Fox release, "The Power and the Glory," an enterprise that has been turned over to the directorial acumen of William K. Howard. Mr. Howard, by the way, seems to have some.

"When a motion picture story is good, there is no need to trick it, and possibly ruin it, with unorthodox camera effects," says Mr. Howard. "On the other hand, it is a rule with directors that a doubtful story needs such treatment and so the camera is turned upside down, pointed from dizzy levels and sometimes up from pits.

"Before we started production of 'The Power and the Glory,' I instructed James Wong Howe, my Chinese first cameraman, to 'shoot' the picture simply, because I considered the story so well told that it needed no assistance except to be photographed without frills.

"The eye is accustomed to see things from a level of 5 feet and a few inches. Only rarely do we see things from an elevation or look upward from pits. Because of that, all my cameras were trained upon players from a man's-eye point of view."

All of which, when you stop to think about it, seems to make pretty sound sense.

However, "The Power and the Glory," apart from any consideration of camera angles, will be a production of uncommon interest because it reintroduces Colleen Moore to the screen after an absence of three years. She will appear opposite Spencer Tracy.

Colleen Moore's was a notable career during the period when she was one of First National's most potent box-office stars.

Having played such unusual assignments as Wesley "Freckles" Barry's mother in "Go Get It," she sprang into immediate favor as the supreme exponent of what was then known as the "flapper" type in Warner Fabian's daring and much-discussed "Flaming Youth." In sharp contrast to such frivolous things as this, she appeared in the silent version of Edna Ferber's "So Big" and in "Lilac Time," one of the better of the long line of spectacular war pictures.

At one time it was feared that her career before the camera might be permanently ended as a result of a serious injury suffered when she accidentally fell off a handcar while making a high-speed action shot for one of her pictures.

She has not been active in the studios or on the lots since her divorce from John McCormick, the former young picture executive who produced a majority of her most successful films.

When Dene Dennis, the sensational young psychic who is as charming as she is baffling in the uncanny accuracy of her divinations, returns to the Capital and the stage of RKO-Keith's for a return engagement, beginning this Friday, it will be, to all intents and purposes, as if she had never been away.

This week, after an eminently satisfactory fortnight on Fifteenth street, she is appearing at the Hippodrome Theater, in Baltimore, but last Saturday night found time to return to Washington at 11:13 p. m., to be whisked to the White House in a record, police-escorted run of scarcely more than five minutes, to be a featured guest at the annual party of White House correspondents, Senate and House reporters and new editors of the local press.

Miss Dennis, who, I believe, had never before appeared professionally in the National Capital, fell head-over-heels in love with the city during the two weeks at RKO-Keith's and contemplates with real delight so speedy a return—and for an indeterminate stay, at that.

Earle Wright, a recurrent and welcome visitor to Washington's dramatic desks, drops in to herald the coming to the Metropolitan on Friday of United Artists' "I Cover the Water Front," in which the principal roles are played by Claudette Colbert, Ben Lyon and the late Ernest Torrence, who, incidentally, is said to do the best character work of his brilliant career, dating back to the silent version of "Tol'able David," in this, the last of his pictures.

This is the first United Artists feature in many months to bring a high pressure exploiteer to a Warner Brothers house, "Cynara," "The Kid from Spain" and the others having adorned local screens of other sponsorship. Nevertheless, the good Dr. Wright purposes to show the boys and girls something with this one, even if it is opening in opposition to Ruby Keeler, Dick Powell, Aline MacMahon, Joan Blondell, et al., in "Gold Diggers of 1933," one

CHRISTIAN SCIENTIST FUND GOAL IN SIGHT

Contributions Will Cease on July 1 for Building in Boston.

No further contributions toward the building fund of the Christian Science Publishing Society's headquarters, which will cost $4,000,000, will be needed after July 1, according to announcement made yesterday at the annual meeting of the Mother Church, the First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass.

The following officers were elected at the meeting: Miss Mary G. Ewing, president; Ezra W. Palmer, clerk, and Edward L. Ripley, treasurer. All of the officers are from Brookline, Mass.

Gov. Ralph O. Brewster, retiring president of the organization, told the assembly in introducing his successor:

"Never have the directors of the mighty army represented by this great assemblage here today faced a more inspiring challenge for world-wide service. The breaking up of material beliefs may seem temporarily to present themselves in the guise of want and woe and famine until the work of those who have enlisted to vanquish error in every form shall make their nothingness appear."

Miss Ewing said:

"In human experience, the regenerating influence of Truth begins with the individual, spreads from one individual to others, from group to group until eventually it must leaven the whole mass of human thought. Then will wars cease and the true brotherhood of man be made apparent, be seen to be established and maintained by God's law; then will the bounty of God's house be realized and men dwell together in security and peace."

A mother and daughter and three students who had been classmates for 15 years climaxed their school friendship yesterday when they were graduated with the 1933 class of American University.

Mrs. Frederick W. Crocker and daughter, Cynthia, of 207 Elm street, Chevy Chase, Md., both members of the graduate school, were graduated with degrees of master of arts in education and psychology. They are the first mother and daughter members of the same class to receive the same degrees in the history of the university.

A son, J. Allen Crocker, will be graduated today from George Washington University with a degree of bachelor of science in electrical engineering. He is a member of the Sigma Mu Sigma Fraternity.

First Philosophy Doctor.

Members of the class who have spent 15 years together in Washington schools are Lois Spencer, Harry Moffett and John Williams, who started school together in the second grade at Powell School.

When the trio were in the seventh grade, they were joined by Margaret Diamond and Harry Underwood also members of this year's graduating class.

Gilbert Stillman Macvaugh has the distinction of being the first student to receive a degree of doctor of philosophy from the College of Liberal Arts.

Degrees were awarded to 132 graduates, the largest class in the history of the school, during the commencement exercises yesterday at the gymnasium auditorium.

Bishop William Fraser McDowell, former resident bishop of the Methodist Episcopal Church here, delivered the commencement address. The students received their degrees from Bishop Edwin Holt Hughes, resident bishop of the Methodist Church, acting chancellor of the university.

Graduating honors were received by Anne Woodward King, summa cum laude; Genevieve Spence Blew, Alice Louise Ford, Robert H. Marcus, magna cum laude, and Harold Alva Harbaugh, Sara Bullard Motley and Elizabeth Jennings Towne, cum laude.

Chicagoan Wins Prize.

The college honor $50 prize, awarded to the senior making the "largest contribution to life on the campus," was won by Robert Marcus, of Chicago.

Marcus had been president of the student body, an outstandoing debater, a member of the team which defeated the University of Oxford and Princeton University.

The annual faculty prizes awarded for scholastic standing and extra curricular activities were awarded to Meta Jane Scantlin, of Washington, a member of the junior class, and Robert Marcus.

Senior honor students achieving the highest academic standing during the last semester were Genevieve Spence Blew, Elizabeth Flemming, Alice Louise Ford, Harold Harbaugh, Ann King, Robert Marcus, Helen Nordlinger, Katherine Reuter and Myron Lee Simpson.

Research Award Made.

Announcement was made by Dr. Woods that Kenneth Hoover, of the graduating class, won the international undergraduate research competition in Beta Beta Beta, honorary biological society.

Two poems by students of the university have been selected for exhibition at the Century of Progress at Chicago, it was announced. The authors are John Coulter, who is studying in France, under direction of the university, and Ann King. American University is 1 of 23 colleges which have been invited to exhibit at the exposition.

The Swift Foundation fellowship was awarded to Floyd Hiatt Ross to study philosophy of religion. The Massey Foundation fellowship went to Alexander George Heakes to study economics in the University of Cambridge, England, and to Lorie Tarshis to study economics at Trinity College, Cambridge, England.

The colorful academic procession was led by Will Hutchins, professor of art of American University, as chief marshal. Prayer was offered by the Rev. G. Ellis Williams.

Puzzle Shot

Mystery Cloaks Firing of Bullet Into Residence; Woman Alone.

A mysterious shot, which ricocheted through a window of the home of George K. Chaconas, 1346 Montague street northwest, and lodged in the bathroom wall, was the object of a close police scrutiny last night.

The bullet, from a .32-caliber gun, was fired shortly before noon while Mrs. Chaconas was alone in the house. Crashing through a front window, it penetrated a door before burying itself in the bathroom wall.

Sixth Precinct police, summoned by Mrs. Chaconas, made a thorough search of the neighborhood but were unable to find any witnesses of the shooting or any motive for the act. The bullet is believed to have struck the sidewalk before entering the house.

P. U. C. ASKS RIGHT TO END TAXI CHAOS

Urges Congress to Require Liability Insurance Before Adjourning.

The Public Utilities Commission yesterday made a plea for passage of the compulsory liability insurance act to goven taxicabs before Congress adjourns in a letter sent to all members of both the Senate and House District Committees. The plea was based on Justice Hitz's ruling and criticism of existing taxicab irresponsibility voiced Saturday in the Court of Appeals in two decisions dealing with injuries to taxicab passengers.

"These cases are of the greatest importance, as they again call attention, this time by our court of last resort, to the serious condition prevailing in the taxicab industry of the District of Columbia, by reason of the fact practically none of these operators carry liability insurance and that injured parties can not obtain satisfaction for judgments secured against the irresponsible operators of cabs for injuries or damage caused in the operation, maintenance, use or by reason of defective construction of such motor cabs or other vehicles," the letter stated.

"On April 3, 1933, the commission sent to both the House and the Senate a draft of a bill which would give the commission adequate authority to require such liability insurance.

"The people's counsel and civic organization in the District of Columbia are on record as favoring such a measure. At public hearings before Congressional committees approval was also voiced by some of the cab operators themselves. In fact, so far as this commission knows, there is little or no opposition to the enactment of this proposed legislation."

MILK PROBE START IS DUE NEXT WEEK

E. H. Seal, Counsel, Busy on Data and Interviewing of Witnesses.

The inquiry into the price of milk and other dairy products is expected to get under way next week, immediately after adjournment of Congress, it was indicated yesterday by members of the subcommittee which will direct the investigation.

The aid of the Department of Justice has been asked by the committee, which has asked Attorney General Cummings to make available the data gathered by the department in an earlier investigation of the National Dairy Products Corporation, which now controls more than 60 per cent of the milk distribution in the Capital.

Assistant Corporation Counsel Elwood H. Seal, who is acting as special adviser to the subcommittee, has requested the Maryland and Virginia Milk Producers Association to produce its records. Numerous dairy farmers have complained against discrimination against them by the Producers Association.

Dairy experts of the Department of Agriculture have also been enlisted to aid for the purposes of comparison the health requirement of large cities for milk.

It had been hoped that the milk probe would be completed by the time of the adjournment of Congress, but the press of important legislation on Capitol Hill has precluded the members of the committee from giving the necessary time to the milk inquiry.

Senator Austin, chairman of the subcommittee, expects that the inquiry will begin next week. At present, Mr. Seal is engaged in classifying the mass of data which will be used as a basis for the inquiry. Several days will be required to interview witnesses who will testify at the hearing.

Two more citizens' associations commended The Washington Post last night for its series of articles on the excessiveness of milk prices in Washington, and recommended a thorough investigation under Congressional direction.

The Citizens Association of Takoma, D. C., in commending The Post for the initiative taken in the milk situation, also commended the Senate committee for the launching of an investigation, and recommended similar action by the House. The Kenilworth Citizens Association likewise commended The Post, in a resolution on the milk situation, which will be sent the federation and proper authorities.

Elgin and Miss Wirgman Stage Surprise Elopement

Society Couple Had Set Wedding Date for Autumn.

Announcing their engagement two weeks, ago, with wedding plans set for next fall, Miss Atlee Wayne Wirgman, popular member of the younger social set, and Nelson Caughy Elgin, of this city, surprised their friends and parents yesterday by eloping to Rockville, Md.

The young couple left last night for a trip down the Potomac River aboard the bridegroom's sailboat. The bride, who made her debut in 1931, is the daughter of Mrs. W. Wayne Wirgman, of 1870 Wyoming avenue northwest.

She is a native of Washington and was graduated from Holton Arms and Gunston Hall. Mr. Elgin is a graduate of the University of Edinburgh, Scotland, and widely known in Washington society circles.

Mrs. Elgin gave her age as 19, and Mr. Elgin said he is 29. The couple plan to make their home here.

NEW HAMILTON BANK TO BEGIN ORGANIZING

Edwin C. Graham Announces Official Action May Begin Today.

Official organization of the proposed "Hamilton National Bank of Washington" may begin today, Edwin C. Graham, selected president of the proposed institution, announced yesterday on his return to Washington from a private business trip.

Full personnel of the organization committee will be named, and this group will select the original directorate of the new bank. Formation of the bank will release 50 per cent of the deposits of its present seven component units, more than $10,000,000. Selection of its offices, other than its main office, already announced, may be deferred.

Recalling the original, official announcement setting forth the plan of a new bank, now called "Hamilton National Bank of Washington," Mr. Graham repeated that its organization committee contemplates no aid from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

Stock Drive Progressing.

Mr. Graham said that, personally, he saw no reason why any other plan than the original should be considered in securing the necessary capital. This plan provides solicitation of stock from depositors and stockholders of the present seven banks organizing the prospective bank and the general public of Washington.

A continued good response to the sale of stock was reported following a meeting of the general subscription committee yesterday. Considerably more than $750,000 worth of stock has been subscribed.

Cooper Holds Session.

Col. Wade H. Cooper, president of the United States Savings Bank, last night held a meeting of the institution's depositors and stockholders to further his plan for opening the bank independently rather than merging it in the Hamilton National Bank.

He told the depositors that the Treasury Department was resolved never to open any of the closed banks in Washington again and declared that the Government had perpatrated a fraud on the stockholders of all closed banks in not closing them sooner. He stated that the Government should pay all the depositors in full.

The United States Savings has already been pledged to the Hamilton Bank by Wilbur H. Zepp, vice president and conservator, but Col Cooper is continuing his efforts to secure independence for the institution.

Subscriptions were pledged last night toward the opening that Col. Cooper plans.

Tax Strike Threat Made by Citizens

A tax "strike" by taxpayers unless some relief is forthcoming in excessive tax costs in the District was recommended last night by Forest Hills Citizens' Association.

The motion embodying this proposal was made by Wilbur LeRoe, who contended that the assessments were unfair and unreasonable, and that repeated attempts to gain a reduction have failed to be given proper recognition.

The association also advocated the use of unemployed persons to cut grass and weeds on vacant lots and streets which might harbor and propagate the spotted fever tick.

DOMINICAN FATHER HERE IS ADVANCED

Pastor of St. Dominic's Is Advised of Promotion to Middle-West Post.

The Very Rev. Raphael M. Burke, pastor of St. Dominic's Church, yesterday learned from the Very Rev. M. S. Gillette, master general of the Dominicans at Rome, that he had been appointed to the headship of the new Dominican province of St. Albert the Great in the Middle West.

Father Burke is one of the best known pastors of the city. St. Dominic's was badly injured by fire just before he first assumed the office of pastor in 1929. Under his direction parish life has been revived and the Dominician services are carried out there as nowhere else in this part of th country.

A farewell reception for Father Burke will be held Monday night at St. Dominic's auditorium at which addresses will be made by the Most Rev. Michael J. Curley, Archbishop of Baltimore, and the Very Rev. T. S. McDermott, provincial of St. Joseph's Province.

The ecclesiastical province over which Father Burke will have authority extends from Chicago to the Rocky Mountains and includes the Gothic House of Studies in Chicago. He will be installed on June 15 at Chicago.

Two Robbers Get $15.

George D. Williams, manager of a cigar store at 1004 Seventh street northwest, was held up and robbed of $15 yesterday afternoon by two colored men. He told police that one of the men was armed and held him at bay while the other rifled the cash register.

COURT PLEA IS LOST BY AUTO RACKETEER

Conviction in Title Fraud Is Sustained by Court of Appeals.

The conviction of John Roland Beck, who was charged with having stolen an automobile belonging to Miss Hazel Collison, was sustained yesterday by the District Court of Appeals with the observation that "the scheme here devised by appellant to fraudulently secure title to the automobile, but which resulted merely in procuring evidence of title, discloses a new and novel method of defrauding and swindling the innocent public."

Beck, according to the appellate court, answered an advertisement which Miss Collison had inserted in a paper describing her car and offering it for sale. He agreed to purchase it for $300 cash, but when she delivered the car he said he had not sufficient money, and he requested that she give him the title certificate and registration card so that he could borrow on the car and pay her.

Miss Collison made an assignment in blank of her title and gave it to Beck to negotiate the loan. Beck also told her, she said, that it would take two days to secure the loan, and he requested that he be permitted to use it during that time. He gave a $300 note to indemnify her for any damage that the car might sustain, and dated the note two days in advance.

Beck then took the machine to Philadelphia, secured a certificate of title, and turned the machine over to a man who sold it. It has since been sold to an unnamed person.

"In a case of this character, where the fraudulent intent from the beginning to the end of the whole transaction, is so apparent, the courts will not be astute to consider mere technicalities which may result in allowing the guilty to escape and to place the approval of the law upon a transaction so steeped in fraud and deception as is the present case," the opinion related.

G. W. U. GRADUATES BEGIN CLINIC WORK

25 Lectures in Surgery and Other Medical Branches Given at Gallinger.

Twenty-five lectures and demonstrations in surgery, medicine, obstetrics and gynecology featured the first day of the first post-graduate clinic for alumni of George Washington University School of Medicine at Gallinger Hospital yesterday.

Many of the city's prominent physicians, who are the faculty of the medical school, participated as lecturers and surgeons. Among them were Dr. Charles S. White, Dr. Warren W. Sager, Dr. Herbert P. Ramsey, Dr. Coursen B. Conklin and Dr. Frank A. Hornaday.

More than 150 physicians from Washington and neighboring States were in attendance. A loud speaker was brought into use for the first time in an operating room to accommodate the large number attending.

The clinics will take place today at George Washington University Hospital. A dinner for the visiting doctors with an entertainment program is planned for tonight at 6:30 o'clock at the University Club.

Other clinics today and tomorrow will be held at Garfield, St. Elizabeths, Emergency, Children's and Episcopal Hospitals.

HIGH SCHOOL CADET SUPREME HONOR TO BE AWARDED TODAY

Three Winning Companies in Annual Competition Will Be Named.

As the shadows lengthen on the greensward of Griffith Stadium this afternoon, the lone figure of a cadet will march across the field while the hearts of thousands of boys and girls from local schools will be momentarially imprisoned, waiting to be released within a few seconds into yells of joy or cries of dismay.

Within his hand, this cadet—Maurice Sinsheimer, of Western High School, the brigade adjutant—will clasp a typewritten slip on which will be written the names of the three winning companies of the forty-sixth annual company competitive drill.

Reaching the center of the field, the adjutant will pause for a full half minute, facing the phalanxes of 30 cadet companies. Then, while suspense ascends to an almost unbearable point, he will turn, either to the right or left, depending on where the victorious company is stationed. He will repeat this performance in the instance of the second and third companies, while the stadium reverberates with frantic applause.

Peak of Cadet Career.

The pantomime, enacted within a few minutes, represents one of the most thrilling experiences in the high school careers of Washington boys and girls.

The curtain rose on the drama of which this scene will be the climax yesterday morning when the first of sixteen companies took the field.

The entire brigade will then go on review before Brig. Gen. Charles E. Kilbourne, assistant chief of staff, U. S. A. The winning companies will then be announced.

The captain of the winning company will be awarded the Allison-Nailor medal. The company will receive the coveted silk flag. The members of the winning company will receive gold lapel buttons; members of the second-place company, silver buttons, and the personnel of the third-place company, bronze medals.

Noncommission Prize.

A feature of yesterday's drill was the annual competition for the rank of best noncommissioned officer. This honor was won by Clarence W. Cox, of Eastern High School. William G. Yeabower, of McKinley, was the runner-up.

Company E, of Roosevelt, captained by Frederick Rosenof, will march onto the field at 8:30 a. m. today. It will be followed by two other companies from the same school, I, of which Alvin Ehrlich is captain and M. Robert Freear, captain.

During the second half of the morning Central will have the spotlight with the following companies drilling: D, Charles E. Morgan; E, Henry R. Berger; B, Sidney S. Sachs; A, Richard W. Hummer; C, Lucian McDonald, and F, Samuel Friedman.

In the afternoon, beginning at 2 o'clock, companies selected by lots from individual schools, will drill as follows: A, of Eastern, winner of the drill last year, Robert Frantz, captain; C, of McKinley, Frederick J. Smith; L, of Roosevelt, Alfred Addone; K, of Western, Hal Clagett and G, of Central, Arthur Kanelopoulos.
